PINAY EMERGES WINNER IN VOTE—293 TO 101

PARIS, March 11 (CP).—Premier Antoine Pinay today won his first vote in the National Assembly by a vote of 293 to 101.

Only the Communists opposed Pinay in the vote of approval for his new right-of-centre cabinet. Pinay is pledged to continue French support of the Atlantic alliance, the fight against Communist-led rebels in Indo-China and a rigorous tax collection reform to finance a contribution to defense.

He has promised to defer the 15-per-cent tax increase proposed by Premier Edgar Faure, his predecessor, until he sees if he can collect enough money from tax dodgers.

Pinay brought his cabinet, the first right-wing government France has had since the war, before Parliament for the first time today. The session was temporarily suspended because of wild disorder.

$30,000,000 SLATED FOR ROADS, BRIDGES

Public Works Minister Kenney Informs House Of 1952-53 Expenditures For Improvements

B.C. will spend more than $30,000,000 on roads and bridges in 1952-53, Public Works Minister E. T. Kenney told the Legislature this afternoon.

This amount is out of a total public works budget of nearly $40,000,000.

The province will spend $3,000,000 on surfacing roads, $2,000,000 on bridges, $3,200,000 on major highway projects and $5,800,000 as B.C.'s half share on Trans-Canada highway work.

Total of $2,000,000 will be expended on a large secondary road program, and a similar amount on reconstruction of parts of the northern Trans-Provincial Highway. Sum of $3,000,000 will be spent on a new Vancouver-Squamish highway.

Maintenance costs in the next fiscal year will be $9,800,000.

The Work's Department administration costs will be about $1,500,000.

The government plans to spend $7,800,000 in the coming year on new buildings.

This includes a new jail at Maple Ridge, the government building in Fort St. John, a 200-bed nurses' home at Essondale, a truck and car garage at Essondale, new laundry and equipment at Essondale, and a home for the aged in Vernon.

Kenney reported that 34.4 miles of paving were carried out this year on the Trans-Canada Highway system, and that 22.8 miles will be done in the coming year. There will be 38 miles of reconstruction. Paving figures for all types of road were not given in his report.

Seven bridges are scheduled for replacement during the coming year at a cost of $1,380,000. These are all on the Trans-Canada system.

The general highway projects scheduled for the year include: Completion of the Fruitvale-Salmo project; completion of the Kamloops-Vernon highway; additional work between Fernie and Elko; a start on standardization of the Okanagan highway, and reconstruction of the Ioco road.

Work is also slated for the Duncan bridge over Cowichan River.

Kenney said completion date of the John Hart highway between Prince George and Dawson Creek has been set back because cold weather necessitated a work stoppage. There is still two months' work to be done.

This delay is expected to place the completion date well into the summer.

The minister gave no details of the proposed secondary road program. This plan will result in improvement to many roads which have been neglected in recent years when the government was concentrating on building up an arterial road system.

Western Powers Expected To Reject Big Four Meet

MOSCOW, March 11 (AP).—The Soviet Union proposed today an immediate Big Four conference to reunite divided Germany and prepare for a peace treaty barring the Germans from alliances aimed at any of their Second World War enemies.

Western observers in Moscow predicted Britain, the United States and France would turn down the proposal, which included a detailed outline of principles which the Russians said should be the basis of the peace treaty.

"West Germany is one of six government negotiating to form a European army linked to the Atlantic alliance against Communism—an alliance which Russia has insisted is aggressively directed against her.)

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the plan to Big Three diplomats in Moscow Monday night.

WOULD EASE TENSION

A final peace with Germany was pictured in the identical Soviet notes to the western Big Three as the key to a "once-and-for-all" easement of east-west tensions.

"The signing of a peace treaty with Germany will be conducive to the improving of the international state of affairs as a whole, thus being conducive to the establishing of a stable peace," the Soviet communication said.

Russia put the unity of Germany ahead of a peace treaty draft, saying the treaty must be worked out with the participation of a general German government.

After the Big Four and Germany agreed on a draft, it would be presented to an "international conference where all the interested states would be represented."

The Soviet list of principles for a German peace seemed identical with previous Russian proposals on the subject.

They called for putting the German borders on the lines set by the Big Four in the 1945 Potsdam conference. (This gave a big slice of pre-war East German territory to Poland but the West has declared the decision was temporary, subject to revision in a peace treaty.)

WOULD RESTRICT ARMS

The Russians also proposed Germany have land, naval and air forces "essential for the defense of the country" and be allowed war industries only big enough to equip these permitted forces.

Occupation forces would be withdrawn within a year after the peace treaty became effective.

The treaty also would "insure the removal of the possibility of a revival of German militarism" but would give former army officers and former Nazis—"excluding those who are serving sentences passed by courts for committing crimes"—the same civil and political rights given other Germans.

TAKE A TIP

Overtaking another moving car on the highway forces you to drive on the wrong side of the road for a distance equal to the length of TWO FOOTBALL FIELDS. The Victoria Automobile Club says BE SURE THE ROAD IS CLEAR WHEN YOU PASS.

Ottawa Govt. Charged With Undue Delays

OTTAWA, March 11—In the Commons Monday, Stanley Knowles, C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre, criticized the government for "playing politics" with national health insurance and tax reductions.

He said the chamber had been led to believe last year that a health insurance committee would be established this year. Now the government said it did not intend to take that step this year.

He suggested the government was waiting to set up the committee next year, on the eve of a general election, so that it could mislead the people into thinking action was being taken on health insurance.

Highway Outlet Construction Set For Spring

Appropriation In Works Budget

Work will start in about two months on construction of a new highway outlet from Victoria to the Upper Island.

The long-awaited project was included in 1952-53 work program, announced this afternoon in the Legislature by Public Works Minister E. T. Kenney.

The minister said a total of 4.6 miles of new road will be constructed as the first phase only of the overall project which will total 10.2 miles. Remainder of the job is expected to be carried out next year.

Exact route to be followed by the new outlet will be announced in about one week.

It is expected the road, leading off from the civic area at Douglas Street and Tolmie Avenue will take a sweep around Portage Inlet in the same general direction as Burnside Road. It will possibly use some portions of the present Burnside Road, crossing it at other points, with the whole stretch brought up to modern highway standard with easy grades and sweeping curves.

It will eliminate the bottleneck now caused by both the Gorge and Craigflower Roads feeding into the Island Highway at the Four-Mile Hill.

FOLLOWS ROAD

Remainder of the new highway will generally follow the present road from the general vicinity of the Six-Mile House to as far as Langford. This work will be mainly a "straightening and widening job."

"Nearly all of the first section to be done this year will be new road over an entirely new route," an official said.

Over-all width will be 44 feet, 24 feet being payed. Ten-foot shoulders will be provided for on each side of the road. The highway will be part of the Trans-Canada system for which the federal government pays one-half.

The new road will not be paved until next year. This will allow it to settle well and make for a better road in the long run.

Tenders will be called in about one month, and a month after that work is scheduled to start. The works department is not divulging the amount of the allocation for the job.

The government will have to appropriate considerable amount of property along the new route. Most of this is yet to be done.

BADLY NEEDED

The new outlet from the city has been urged by police, community clubs and business organizations for years. The present highway, via Gorge Road and the Island Highway, is a treacherous, narrow, winding road which has gained the nickname "Death Alley."

Because of the number of accidents, injuries and deaths on the section of highway police are forced to patrol it constantly. Newspaper files are full of stories of tragic accidents on the highway.

City boosters have maintained for years the clogged highway is a "poor entrance to such a beautiful city."

Kenney told the House the remaining section of the Victoria-Patricia Bay Highway, between the Victoria city limits and East Saanich Road, will be completed in 1952-53. Also slated for completion is the part between the Keating Crossroad and Patricia Bay. Tenders will be called soon for those sections on which reconstruction has been completed.

Raging Fire Sweeps Block In P. Alberni

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (BUP).—Port Alberni's volunteer fire department has been mobilized to the last man to fight a blaze sweeping through "half a square block" in the older section of the downtown district.

Half a dozen residents of a two-story frame structure were evacuated shortly after the fire broke out at 10.30 a.m. PST.

Firemen said the flames raced through an empty theatre, a cafe, the Eagles Hall and an abandoned pool hall, causing an estimated $65,000 damage.

Customers in Spooner's Coffee Shop in the middle of the building made their way to safety after the fire was spotted. No one was reported injured.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police said the 20-man fire brigade was still battling to control the blaze two hours after the first alarm was turned in and trying to prevent it from spreading to a nearby frame building housing another restaurant.

The old Port Theatre already has been ravaged by the flames, the R.C.M.P. said. The theatre was abandoned a month ago when new quarters were completed.

Standard Of British Living Slashed Again

LABOR PARTY REFUSES TO CENSURE ANEURIN BEVAN; ATTLEE IS BOOED

LONDON, March 11 (AP).—Aneurin Bevan today defeated an attempt by Clement Attlee's moderates to censure him for bucking Labor party views on rearmament. The motion was defeated 172-62 at a party meeting in which Attlee at one time was booed.

All that Attlee salvaged was a watered-down version of restoring "standing orders" of party leadership. Under standing orders, rebels can be expelled from the party. But the resolution as finally adopted left loopholes for the Bevanites.

The party decision avoided censure of Bevan and his 56 followers. Bevan had not recanted in any of his beliefs and headed off an iron-clad crackdown on his bloc.

The party split came to a head last Wednesday when Bevan, former health minister, and his bloc refused to follow party orders during a Commons vote on supporting Britain's rearmament program—a program launched by the Attlee government—but questioning the ability of the Conservative government to carry it out.

Drastic Budget Cuts Subsidies By Third

LONDON, March 11 (CP)—Britons today were asked to undergo a new round of belt-tightening in a budget which raised taxes and food prices in an effort to head off national bankruptcy and stop inflation.

Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, brought down a record peacetime budget calling for expenditure of £4,240,000,000 ($11,872,000,000) in the fiscal year beginning next April 1.

He estimated revenue at £4,778,000, leaving a record treasury surplus of £538,000,000, despite spending of £43,000,000 more than last year.

(The pound sterling is quoted around $2.80 in Canadian international exchange dealings but this does not indicate its buying power in the United Kingdom.)

The 49-year-old chancellor, bringing down the first peacetime Conservative budget in 13 years, made proposals which will hit high and low alike. His address took only one hour and 49 minutes, one of the shortest budget speeches in recent years.

The low will feel a cut of about a third in government food subsidies, paid to keep the price of staple foods down. But they will also benefit by a juggling of income tax which will alow more pay for more work and by an increase in allowances the state pays to families with children.

The high will feel a jump in profits tax. An excess-profits tax will skim off 30 per cent of all profits above a figure reckoned on the last three years' earnings—or 18 per cent of all earnings, whichever is less.

As a drastic step to halt the drain on Britain's gold and dollar reserves, Butler announced the third round of import cuts since the government took office last October.

To stop inflation at home, he raised the bank rate to make money dearer and make it more difficult to get loans which do not fall within government planning.

Much of Britain's economic troubles comes from rearmament and the budget provides £1,550,000,000 for defense, up £60,000,000 from last year.

Price Of Staples To Rise

The big item in the budget for all Britons was the slash in the food subsidies from £410,000,000 last year to £250,000,000. Butler estimated this will mean an extra shilling and sixpence a week expenditure for every person in the country.

Angry cries of "class war" from the Labor benches greeted Butler when he listed meat, bread, flour, milk, butter, bacon, cheese, sugar and tea among the foods affected.

To balance these additional burdens, Butler proposed radical taxation changes to encourage people to work "harder and longer" and help accomplish the "tremendous task" facing Britain's exporters:

1. The tax on corporation earnings held in reserve or paid as dividends will be cut.

2. Legislation will exempt some 2,000,000 low-wage earners from any tax. In addition to increased family allowances, the income tax exemption for single persons will be raised from £110 to £120; for a married couple from £120 to £190, and for each child from £70 to £85.

Butler brought cheers from the House when he said:

"There will be no increase in tobacco and liquor."

Daily Bread Threatened

Butler warned Britons that their "daily bread" is threatened by the drain on the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves. He said: "One of the sure ways to make sterling stronger is to make it scarcer, and that is what we intend to do."

"The future is uncertain and the consequences of failure are dire. We are determined not to fail."

Clement Attlee, leader of the Labor opposition, had only brief comment:

"This is a budget in which there are good things, bad things and indifferent things, and until I have had a little more time to look, I am not giving a verdict on the total effect on the people we are most concerned with—the mass of the people of this country."

Attlee predicted the cost of living will rise steeply with reduced food subsidies.

Among the new imposts announced is an increase in auto license fees from £10 to £12 10 shillings and a boost in the gasoline tax.

Editorial Rouses House; Apology Move Defeated

Would Have Asked Times Publisher For Retraction

By GORDON FORBES

The British Columbia Legislature just before midnight Monday narrowly defeated a move to have Victoria Daily Times' publisher Stuart Keate ordered before the Bar of the House to retract and apologize for statements made in a recent editorial.

The House debated the issue for a total of two hours in afternoon and night sittings. It was the most spirited debate in the current, dreary session.

The editorial which aroused the ire of C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch and others appeared in last Friday's issue of the Times. It dealt with certain phases of hospital insurance and suggested that members urging abolition of co-insurance were thinking of getting re-elected. It said the only person who is happy about the situation is Winch "who seems to have been the chief author" of the inquiry board report. Winch cared nothing for costs or expenditures, the editorial said.

See "The Prisoner's Song" in Loose Ends column, page 4.

Winch first raised the issue Friday when he asked Madame Speaker Hodges to "deal with" the editorial and report her findings to the House. Monday afternoon she told the legislature the House must deal with it.

PAPER TABLED

Sydney Smith (Govt., Kamloops), chairman of the inquiry board, then tabled a copy of the paper containing the editorial and the clerk of the House read marked sections.

Smith made a motion asking that publisher Keate be brought before the Bar of the House on Tuesday (today) to retract "defamatory statements" in the editorial. He said the editorial attacks the character of one member of the House, is a slur on the integrity of the board and imputes improper motives to members of the legislature.

The House also defeated by a six-vote margin an amendment to the original motion which, if passed, would have seen the legislature "record its disapproval of an unprovoken, unwarranted and untrue attack upon members of the hospital insurance inquiry board and members of this legislature."

STRONG TERMS

During the course of the debate the editorial, among other things, was termed "vicious," "a betrayal of faith," "defamatory," 'stupid," "foolish," "a reflection on the integrity of members," "character assassination," "unprovoked," "irresponsible," "unfair," "blunt," "disgraceful and scandalous," and "misleading."

Declaring he is a great believer in the freedom of the press, Smith said he wanted to point out that the license and privilege enjoyed by the press carries with it a responsibility to be fair and honest.

"Could anything be more stupid and foolish?" he asked when referring to the suggestion that inquiry board members were thinking of getting elected when framing the report. The editorial, he said, demanded a denial and reprimand.

The suggestion that Winch was the author of the report, Smith said, was an insult to the intelligence and a reflection on the integrity of board members.

Walter Hendricks (Govt., Nelson-Creston), also a board member, seconded the motion.

How To Kill Hospital Insurance

In view of the interest aroused when it originally appeared on Friday, March 7, the editorial which has been under fire in the Legislature is reprinted herewith:

When a committee of the Legislature undertook to investigate the B.C. hospital insurance scheme it sought advice from Mr. Samuel Eckler, F.S.A., of Toronto, who was considered the best authority on these matters in Canada. On one aspect of the insurance problem Mr. Eckler was especially clear in his recommendation. He told the investigating committee:

"Some plan of co-insurance is essential to keep the hospital utilization at a minimum. The system of co-insurance should be designed to reduce admission and long stays."

At another point he says that "the amount of the admission fee, the number of days' stay beyond which additional payments by the beneficiary are required, and the amount of the additional payments can be determined by the condition that the total income to the hospitals from this source should equal approximately estimated co-insurance income."

In plainer terms, British Columbia cannot afford to charge patients less than the present rate of co-insurance lest it encourage an excessive use of hospitals.

This finding by a distinguished expert only confirms the common observation of laymen during the last year. Before co-insurance was imposed the hospitals were so crowded that some people, seriously ill, could not be admitted. Too many people who did not require them were filling all the available beds. When a person has to pay some small part of the cost of hospitalization he does not demand it unnecessarily. This co-insurance reduced if it did not completely solve the problem of congestion.

If co-insurance is abandoned the old crowding will recur, it will greatly increase the expenditure of the whole scheme, it will compel the construction of new hospital accommodation at gigantic capital and maintenance cost.

In short, once this safeguard is lost the whole scheme will become quite unmanageable. Its present deficits are large enough and are being made up, more and more, by the taxpayers. Without co-insurance they would soon prove insupportable. The real friends of hospital insurance will wish to safeguard it from a disaster which would end in its breakdown or repeal. The enemies of hospital insurance are those who would make it too expensive to be borne by the premium payers and the taxpayers. The scheme can be killed by kindness.

Why, then, did a legislative committee recommend the abandonment of co-insurance? Why are some members of the Legislature insisting that it must be abandoned immediately without any general revision of the scheme? For one reason only—to win an election.

At the moment, no doubt, any change which seemed to reduce the cost of hospitalization to the individual would be popular. A reduction in taxes is a sure vote-getter. But of course the abandonment of co-insurance would not be a reduction in taxes. It would merely transfer the cost from the premium payer to the taxpayer and he is generally the same person. In making that transfer it would greatly increase the total cost.

Those who would end co-insurance are well aware of these simple mathematical facts but they hope to win their individual elections before the facts emerge and the bills have to be paid. Thus a committee which seeks the advice of a recognized expert rejects that advice because it is sound financially and adopts a policy which it considers sound politically.

The only person who is happy about this situation is Mr. Harold Winch who seems to have been the chief author of the committee's report, who cares nothing for costs or expenditures, who would apply these same principles of waste and extravagance to the whole structure of government and who, in this case, seems to have imposed his views on his fellow committee members.

Fortunately he has been unable to impose them on the government. For the sake of hospital insurance we hope Mr. Johnson will stand firm against any such plan to wreck a valuable public service by making it uncontrollable.

PLEA FROM GARDINER

Lifting Of Manitoba Meat Embargo Asked

WINNIPEG, Man., March 11 (BUP).—Agriculture Minister James G. Gardiner came here today to plead with the Manitoba government to lift its strict embargo on western livestock shipments.

The meeting was scheduled a few hours after the federal minister slapped an embargo on all shipments of meat and livestock into and out of the guarantined Regina, Sask., area in a ruthless step to halt the spread of foot-and-mouth disease.

Gardiner said in Regina he would make the plea to Manitoba so that livestock shipments could continue through Manitoba to eastern markets. His argument will be based on the fact that no livestock will move out of southern Saskatchewan.

Meanwhile, officials of the Manitoba government declined comment on Gardiner's statement. They said they wanted to hear it from him personally.

Following the institution of the new ban in Regina area, the agriculture minister said there were about 25,000 cattle in the Regina area plus 1,000,000 pounds of meat in cold storage.

"This means the quarantine zone can be self-supporting," he said. "And if no shipments are allowed in, farmers won't be tempted to illegally truck animals to outside points."

Earlier Monday, Gardiner told Saskatchewan agriculture authorities that he would take up the matter of compensation wages to packinghouse workers laid off as a result of the outbreak.

'ONE LIFE NOT ENOUGH'

Further Threats Over Willie Sutton Capture

NEW YORK, March 11 (UP)—Terror gripped a quiet Brooklyn neighborhood today while F.B.I. agents studied a new death threat sent to the family of murdered Arnold Schuster, tipster in the capture of bank robber Willie Sutton.

Doors to most of the two-story brick homes in the 900 block of 45th Street in Linden Heights were locked. Shutters were drawn on windows near the spot where Schuster was slain last Saturday night.

An hour before the 24-year-old pants salesman was buried in a Long Island cemetery yesterday, a relative of Schuster received a note warning that "this isn't the end."

"One life is not enough," the note said. "There will be more."

F.B.I. took custody of the note. They entered the case because the note was sent to the Schuster home through the mails.

A filling station attendant who played only a minor role in the capture of Sutton on a Brooklyn street last Feb. 18 also reported that his life had been threatened.

Jack Peene, who told police the direction in which Sutton had gone after renting an automobile battery from his gas station, said his wife received the warning from an anonymous telephone caller Monday.

"When you get in touch with him," the caller told Mrs. Peene, "tell him to take out a bigger insurance policy and not to take long walks."

Police Commissioner George Monaghan put a 24-hour guard around Peene and his wife as well as Schuster's survivors.

As the F.B.I. studied its newest clues, the city worked toward raising a large reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the gunman who fired four bullets into Schuster as he walked home from work.

Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri said he would ask the city to put up a $25,000 reward. Newspapers and a television station already had posted $12,000.

"If they get those rewards up to $100,000," Monaghan said, "I think we'll catch him. Some of these guys would turn in their own mother for $100,000."

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

NATIONAL SMILE WEEK

ACCORDING to the new calendar of 152 national "weeks" which crowd themselves into our already over-crowded year, by way of U.S. directives, this is National Smile Week. Incidentally, I notice that, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce brochure which lists all the special weeks:

"National Smile Week is sponsored by the Gibson Art Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, to stimulate the remembering of friends and loved ones with cheery greeting cards."

SPONSOR CANDID

I WAS GLAD to learn the origin of National Smile Week because I had never connected it with the greeting card industry. What with Mother's Day cards, Father's Day cards, Valentines, Easter, Christmas, birthday and all the other commercialized occasions on which printed cards have superseded the now dead art of letter-writing, it had never dawned on me that there was room for more greeting card business.

On the other hand, I had been naive enough to think that National Smile Week had been thought up by some cheery soul who, on looking around at the grief in other parts of the world, had come to the conclusion that there was something in the well-known lines:

"Laugh and the world laughs with you,
Weep and you weep alone.
This poor old earth has to borrow its mirth,
It hath sorrow enough of its own."

LAUGHS COME LATER

BUT I RECALL that in last year's calendar of special weeks National Laugh Week came later, sponsored by the Humor Business Publishing Co., and the National Laugh Week Foundation, who were presumably inspired by the belief that he laughs longest—and does the most business—who laughs last.

For some reason or other, National Laugh Week has been left out of the latest calendar that I received from Washington, D.C. It may be too many people died of laughing at themselves and each other under the commercial dispensation of that special week.

MUCH TO SMILE AT

HOWEVER, quite apart from the commercial aspect, and even if you don't feel inclined to heed the exhortation of the sponsor to say "Cheerio"—per greeting card—to your long-forgotten Aunt Lizzie or the fellow who still owes you that $5 he borrowed two years ago, we on this side of the world have much to smile at and be thankful for.

With Canada booming as it is, living standards higher than ever before—yes, even making all allowances for the higher cost of living and the devious ways of politicians—Canadians have every reason to smile the sheer smile of happiness and contentment.

PITY THE OTHERS

YOU HAVE only to look across the Pacific to see the terribly grim struggle for sheer existence among the Chinese who have in the last few years been reduced to conditions even below their normal semi-starvation subsistence. The same pertains to other countries dominated by the shadow of Communism.

Or, if you prefer, take a look across the Atlantic. Great Britain, after years of grim hardship imposed by bombs and blitz, followed by years of ever-increasing austerity in the immediate postwar period, is having to tighten her tightened belt more closely than ever.

QUEUES FOR CARPETS

WITH RATIONS recently reduced to even more microscopic proportions, Britons are finding living conditions harder than ever. When I hear Canadians grumbling about high prices and temporary shortages, I wonder what they would say if they had to do as some people did when a carpet sale came up in a London store recently.

One man, an ex-R.A.F. pilot, queued up for two whole days and nights outside the store in question to make sure of getting a carpet. Nor was he alone—by the time that store opened on sale day, 2,000 others had joined him in the long wintry vigil for bargains.

That's one reason—and only one of many—why we in Canada should not be quite so long-faced in contemplating the problems ahead of us. If we properly evaluated our lot as compared with those in other less fortunate countries, every week would be National Smile Week for us.

Capt. Piers Named To N.A.T.O. Staff

Capt. Desmond W. Piers, D.S.C., veteran of North Atlantic warfare and former commander of the destroyer Restigouche, has been appointed to the staff of Admiral Lynde D. McCormick, the new Supreme Allied Commander in the Atlantic.

Many Victoria men served with Capt. Piers during the Second World War, and he is well-known in naval circles here.

INSURANCE SERVICE STAFF CUTS FACED

Experts Probing Compusory B.C. Scheme Will Urge Drastic Changes, Member Warns

Drastic changes in the administrative set-up of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service will be recommended by Stevenson and Kellog, management engineers who have been surveying the service.

Sydney Smith (Gov., Kamloops), chairman of the hospital insurance inquiry board, made this report to the Legislature Monday. He was speaking in the budget debate.

He said the management engineers have informed him their survey is now complete and the report will be ready by the end of April. The firm expects to be able to cut the B.C.H.I.S. staff by one-third.

Smith regretted that the government does not intend to abolish co-insurance at the present session. He termed it the most unpopular feature in the entire scheme.

The Kamloops member appealed to the government to refrain from granting permission for the proposed settlement of the Sons of Freedom at any location such as Adams Lake.

Smith urged the expansion of irrigation projects in B.C. One of the greatest needs, he added, is to secure the facilities of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act for any suitable land in B.C.

Bill Provides Higher Rates For Dependents

Increased benefits to injured workmen and their dependents are provided in a bill amending the Workmen's Compensation Act introduced in the Legislature Monday.

The bill is based on recommendations in Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan's Royal Commission report.

The new rates, however, will only be paid on a retroactive basis to orphans and crippled dependent children. This means the new ruling mostly will affect future compensation cases.

The bill increases monthly payments to widows from $50 to $75, monthly payments to widows for each dependent child from $12.50 to $20, and for orphans from $20 to $30. Funeral allowances are increased from $150 to $250.

The percentage rate of payment to injured workmen is increased from 66 2-3 per cent to 70 per cent of the average monthly wage.

In cases of total disability, compensation paid is raised from a minimum of $12.50 to $15 a week.

The compensation ceiling is increased from $2,500 to $3,600.

It also is provided that the Compensation Board shall pay hospital insurance premiums for widows and their dependents and for orphan children.

The bill will remove the $75,000 ceiling which the board must operate under to assist in getting injured workmen back to work.

C.P.R. Engineer Dies Suddenly

Bryce F. Stewart, chief engineer of C.P.S.S. Motor Princess, died suddenly aboard ship Monday. He was 45, and had been with the C.P.R. for 30 years.

Funeral services will be held at 2 Thursday afternoon in McCall Brothers' chapel, Rev. M. A. J. Waters officiating.

Mr. Stewart is survived by his widow, Clara; three sons, Duncan, Charles and Allan of Victoria; one sister, Mrs. Jenny Davidson of Victoria, and one brother, Allan, in Vancouver.

NANAIMO, March 11—Martin Pierre, 18, of Duncan, was convicted Monday afternoon in Assize Court on a charge of rape, with a recommendation by the jury for leniency. Sentence will passed at the end of the Assizes.

Hospital's Staff Aids Blood Bank

Hospital workers, whose day-to-day contact with the sick and injured has impressed on them the need of having an adequate blood supply for transfusion purposes, intend to boost the Red Cross blood bank Thursday by donating themselves.

Nurses, orderlies, administrative staff, office workers and all other employees of Royal Jubilee and D.V.A. hospitals here will take time out from regular duties to roll up their sleeves and contribute to the Red Cross blood transfusion service.

Special clinic sessions have been arranged for afternoon and evening at the Jubilee annex building.

The afternoon session will be from 2 to 5; the evening clinic, from 7.30 to 9.30.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, medical superintendent of the Jubilee, believes the staffs of the two hospitals will turn out in great strength.

Yukon Has Meat

The Yukon Territory does not have to go short of meat because there are cattle available in the Peace River block, Dr. W. R. Gunn, livestock commissioner, said today.

He was replying to complaints from a Yukon mining area which cannot get adequate meat supplies.

"I had a wire yesterday from a Dawson Creek firm which could supply meat to that area," said the commissioner.

Dr. Gunn also pointed out that the Yukon Territory could apply to the federal government for a permit to import meat from the United States.

Jobs For Elder Citizens Commended

Establishment of a government-labor-management committee to study the possibility of getting jobs for older persons in British Columbia, was suggested in the Legislature Monday night by Jack McRae (Govt., Prince Rupert).

McRae

If a man is unable to work a full eight-hour day, McRae said arrangements should be made for him to work four hours or even less.

The committee would study placement of elderly people in competitive employment, selective placement, sheltered employment, hours of employment and scale of pay in respect to established rates.

As well as keeping hundreds of persons off the old-age pension plan, McRae said his scheme would keep old people happier. Being forced to stop work has a "demoralizing effect" on these people, he added.

The Prince Rupert member also suggested formation of an "employment assistance service" in the social service department.

"This would result in a happier society for many of our senior citizens. It would be a controlling factor in the rising cost of social services which are borne by the citizens of this province," said the young member.

McRae also urged completion of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into the Peace River.

BIG ADDITION

The Northwest Territories, area 1,309,000 square miles, was admitted to the Canadian confederation in 1869.

LONDON (CP)—Under new prison regulations, persons facing execution in British jails will be allowed 20 cigarettes a day, double the previous allowance.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

FIBS—In Munsan, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today that Red falsehoods are upsetting Korean truce talks.

The U.N. commander said armistice negotiations have reached a point where it's impossible to tell what is going to happen. He blamed Communist negotiators "who resort to intemperate langauge and deliberately employ known falsehoods."

Ridgway branded Red stories that Allies are using germ warfare as "completely, absolutely and categorically false."

He speculated Communist accusations were either (1) an attempt "to cover up their inability to prevent epidemics and to control them after they do occur" or (2) an indication they plan "to employ such methods" (germ warfare) themselves.

SERIAL—In Moscow the Literary Gazette began the serial publication today of the book containing excerpts from the diary of U.S. Maj.-Gen. Robert W. Grow.

It was the first reference in the Soviet press to the diary of Grow, until recently U.S. military attache in Moscow.

Excerpts from the diary appeared in the book, "On the Path to War," published in the Soviet zone of Berlin under the name of Richard Squires, a former British army major, who disappeared in the German capital four years ago.

SHOCKING—The majority of Canadians left in Communist China are trying to get out of the country but are getting "shocking treatment" while they wait, a foreign policy spokesman told Parliament in Ottawa Monday.

Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, said that the number of Canadians behind the Bamboo Curtain had been cut from 400 to 160 in the past year. He said most of those left were missionairies and that many of them had applied to the Communists for exit permits.

Lesage said Canadians in China had been subjected to "shocking treatment" by Reds. However, he urged "utmost caution" in dealing with Communist maltreatment of Canadian missionaries.

SECRET—In Fort Worth, Tex., a super secret meeting between Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg and builders of the B-36 superbomber led to speculation today that the giant jet plane might be due for its baptism in combat.

Vandenberg flew from Washington and conferred for three hours Monday with Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corp. officials, builders of the atomic weapons carrying global superbomber.

Maj.-Gen. Samuel E. Anderson, commanding general of the Eighth Air Force, which flies the B-36s, joined the closed-door session.

Vandenberg came to Fort Worth after President Truman requested a conference the previous day in Key West, Fla., where the President is resting.

ALONE—In Australia the Sydney Sun reported from Canberra today that Australia would not follow Britain's lead in imposing travel restrictions on Iron Curtain diplomats.

The newspaper's Canberra correspondent reported that the decision was based on a recommendation by External Affairs Minister Richard Casey.

In addition to the Soviet embassy in Canberra, the Russians also maintain a full-time Tass News Agency man in Australia.

SALARIES—In Toronto, Rev. M. J. MacKinnon, director of the extension department of St. Francis Xavier University, said Monday night that if the Canadian taxpayer wants his children to be educated, rather than merely instructed, he must be prepared to pay well for it.

In a lecture, he said that "teachers are the most important servants of the community. If they are doing their job as it should be done they should be paid a decent salary and they should never have to go on strike."

Father MacKinnon heads the university department which developed and spread the famous Antigonish movement of co-operative action.

DEEPER—Calgary people in future will be buried deeper—and at greater cost.

A civic committee recommended to city council Monday night that the cemetery bye-law be amended to provide that graves be dug seven feet deep for one person and nine feet for two. Present law is six feet and eight feet.

The deeper graves will conform to a 1942 provincial public health act amendment stipulating there must be five feet of earth above the coffin.

"PLUGS" — Attention Plugs from coast to coast: There's a new book out about you.

'LOOKED LIKE HELL,' SAY ALLIED PILOTS

Searing Napalm Turns Red Supply Base Into Blazing Ruins; Three Migs Shout Out Of Sky

SEOUL, Korea, March 11 (AP)—United States jet pilots turned a huge camouflaged Red supply base into blazing ruins today in the most intense attack of the Korean war with flaming jellied gasoline.

Flames spread over a four-square-mile area of the supply depot.

"It looked like Hell itself," said some of the pilots, who flew a total of 250 sorties in waves.

Swarms of Red jets streaked down from Manchuria to try to protect the base near Sinmak, 30 miles northwest of the truce village, Panmunjom.

U.S. Sabre jet pilots shot down three Migs in air battles, probably destroyed another and damaged five.

That boosted Red planes knocked out to 19 in two days. The air force reported seven Migs downed and three damaged Monday. U.S. losses, if any, are reported only weekly.

F-80 Shooting Stars attacked the supply depot, camouflaged so it "looked like an innocent farming village." Pilots said they could see it was a fake. Then they let loose.

They poured 33,300 gallons of searing napalm (jellied gasoline) on the area, blasted it with 300,000 pounds of explosives, and raked it with 45,000 machine-gun bullets.

RETURN TRIPS

They attacked through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire. The Shooting Stars unloaded their bombs, roared back to base and came back with new loads.

Pilots said they demolished at least 32 Red anti-aircraft positions but lost count of the number of installations and Red troops destroyed.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said they still were attacking the flaming area at nightfall.

"There isn't much of anything left of that place," one pilot said.

The air war continued to overshadow ground action along the thawing front lines.

A U.S. Eighth Army briefing officer said the Reds Monday failed to throw a single probing attack at U.N. lines. Only a few small patrol clashes were reported.

The air battle pitted 41 Sabres against 208 Migs. The Red planes were trying to break through the protective jet screen thrown up around United Nations fighter bombers attacking ground targets.

Saanich police have asked city police to be on the lookout for $100 worth of jewelry and old coins stolen from a home in their municipality.

The jewelry, including English gold and silver coins, were taken by a burglar who broke into the home of Lou Corke, 3375 Quadra, recently.

Labor Lobby Appears Dead

Plans for a full-scale lobby on the Parliament Buildings here by combined organized labor forces to demand immediate changes to Hospital Insurance, I.C.A. and Workmen's Compensation Acts, have apparently folded.

A special meeting called by the B.C. Federation of Labor (C.C.L.) to consider such action was held in Vancouver last week-end but failed to draw even a good turnout. Only 75 persons attended when 300 had been expected.

Earlier, the powerful T.L.C. group in the province put thumbs down on any joint action with the C.C.L., because of standing policy of the national organization.

PETERSHEAD, Scotland (CP)—During a power blackout worshippers in a local church heard the service in darkness. The minister and organist used bicycle lamps while the congregation sang familiar hymns.

Optimism Marks Solarium Meeting

Optimism for 1952 despite a $68,930 deficit last year was expressed at the annual board meeting of Queen Alexandra Solarium, Monday.

John S. Holdstock, hospital administrator, told the meeting in Empress Hotel that cost per day per patient and cost per illness would show a reduction this year.

"We have not had to keep any child waiting for admission to the Solarium," he said.

The meeting elected two new directors and re-elected eight others, who will meet with balance of the 20-man board March 25 to elect officers. Hon. Clarence Wallace, Lieutenant-Governor, was named honorary president.

New directors are Mrs. E. Glover and Mrs. J. W. Archer. Re-elected are Robert Cheyne, Walter Luney, Harold Henderson, G. I. Edgelow, A. J. Watson, Walter Stenner, W. C. Mainwaring and Justin V. Harbord.

RECORD HIGH

In his report, A. Logan Mayhew, president, said the financial picture was "not one to be happy with or to be proud of." He said total operating expenditure for 1951 of $218,620 was the highest on record.

The year saw 100 patients at the Solarium, fewest for any year in the last 10, Mayhew said. He felt, however, the picture was brighter.

"When we remember the monies have been expended to rehabilitate youngsters who undoubtedly otherwise would go through life greatly handicapped or completely incapacitated."

Holdstock reported loss of revenue from patients and B.C. hospital insurance accounted "for no less than $23,000 of the loss of revenue."

Increase in per capita cost of patient care from $9.34 in 1950 to $15.95 in 1951, resulted partly from the smaller number of patients, according to the president's report. Cost per illness last year was a record high of $5,133.

The administrator stated 100 children received 13,646 days of treatment in 1951. Average stay of patients is now 328 days, he said. Fifty per cent of patients are from Vancouver Island and the remainder from the mainland, he added.

Solarium Junior League raised close to $20,000 last year.

Uphill Backs Fishermen's W.C.A. Demand

British Columbia fishermen in Victoria to force their demands for inclusion under the Workmen's Compensation Act, received the support in the Legislature, Monday of Thomas Uphill, the province's lone Labor member.

Uphill

"The fishermen are entitled to the same consideration as any other industry," declared Uphill. "Great Britain does it, why can't we?"

The public galleries were full of fishermen.

Uphill urged Attorney-General Gordon Wismer to allow sweepstakes and raffles in B.C. for community and charitable purposes. He suggested a system whereby the police would issue permits to organizations wanting to stage sweepstakes.

"The attorney-general only has to go to Ottawa and ask for it, and he knows it," said Uphill. "They wouldn't turn him down—especially on the eve of an election."

The Labor member endorsed a plea for a reduction in car licenses from $25 to $10.

"Most of the motorists use their cars to make a living," said Uphill.

The Empty Bag

MR. WINCH IS VERY TOUCHY these days. Instead of explaining C.C.F. policy he is engaged in parliamentary manoeuvres, pin pricks, attacks on newspapers and heavy sarcasm. Instead of telling us what socialism would do to British Columbia he is beating his breast. Instead of policy he is making noises. His speeches rattle because they are empty.

This is not surprising since the basic policy of the C.C.F., as laid down in the Regina Manifesto (which has never been repealed) obviously is out of date and has become quite irrelevant to our current situation. This was strikingly demonstrated in the legislature a few days ago when Mr. Winch's colleague, Mr. Harding, of Kaslo-Slocan, publicly welcomed the arrival of the gigantic capitalistic Celgar Company to his constituency, though the Regina Manifesto states that "no C.C.F. Government will rest content until it has eradicated capitalism and put into operation the full program of socialized planning which will lead to the establishment in Canada of the Co-operative Commonwealth."

The C.C.F. in British Columbia, in Saskatchewan and elsewhere no longer is talking—aloud, anyway—about eradicating capitalism. The only C.C.F. government, in Saskatchewan, is desperately trying to attract private capital. Mr. Harding, and doubtless other C.C.F. politicians in British Columbia, are just as desperately trying to secure such investment.

Socialism in the form of nationalization has ceased to be practical politics in Britain, Australia and New Zealand, where it was vainly tried, and in Canada is now only a dead dogma, a party folklore.

That leaves Mr. Winch holding a hollow bag. The Mr. Winch of today assuredly is not the flaming prophet of the famous Calgary speech in 1943 when he said that Canada required a revolution and that when the C.C.F. came to power "it will be because the people have given it a mandate to institute a socialist program. The C.C.F. will immediately proceed to enact legislation in accordance with its program. If big industry and high finance refuse to obey the laws, democratically placed on the statute books, then they will be in the same position as one who breaks the law today and would have to be handled as lawbreakers by the police and military forces."

Is Mr. Winch prepared to reiterate this policy now? Is he ready to tell the industries which are investing in British Columbia that they will be taken over by the state, at its discretion, and will be treated as lawbreakers if they object? Is he ready to stand by a program which instantly would halt the present movement of capital into this province?

Mr. Winch doubtless will say that he does not propose to socialize everything. His party on coming to office would only socialize the industries which, in its judgment, require socialization. Very well, then, what industries does it propose to socialize? How far is capitalism to be "eradicated"? Where is the line to be drawn? What assurance has any investor that his investment will not be taken over and managed by a C.C.F. government?

And, finally, does Mr. Winch think that he, whose experience in life from youth has been confined to politics, can manage our industries better than their present managers?

Mr. Winch is not answering any of these questions. Since the C.C.F.'s policy throughout Canada has become irrelevant and has been rejected everywhere except in Saskatchewan (where it has been quietly dropped by its makers) Mr. Winch falls back on debating points, protests, innuendos and moral indignations. He is no longer a reformer seeking to re-build society. He is a party leader trying to win an election, mostly by promising to spend more of the taxpayer's money. He is not preaching the Co-operative Commonwealth. He is striking an attitude.

Let's Have A Yes Or No

DESPITE THE OPPOSITION OF ITS chairman, Sen. Tom Connally, there is a good prospect that the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations committee will shortly make a report on the St. Lawrence Seaway plan.

The report may not be favorable, for some on the committee are against the proposal and some are still undecided, but advocates of the project see even this move as progress. The plan has been stalled in committee for many years, in spite of recommendations from both President Roosevelt and President Truman.

There can be little doubt that Canada's decision to go ahead with the vast navigation and power plan regardless of United States action is having some effect on the Senate body. Those favorable to the program recognize that this may well be the United States' last opportunity to get in on the deal—that after this year it could be an all-Canadian show. That knowledge has prompted some members of the committee to rebel against Connally's stalemate tactics. They intend to force a vote if the chairman attempts to let the matter die. This will likely take place in a few days, when the text of the recent Seaway hearing has been printed.

Meanwhile Canada has moved to set up a power authority to handle that phase of the project, and public opinion seems generally confident that we could tackle the $700 million dollar program with every hope of success.

Defeat of the plan in the U.S. Senate committee would spell another victory for the American transportation and port interests which have consistently provided opposition. But many Washington authorities will recognize a negative vote as a serious error of judgment which would become more obvious through the years.

There is one possibility, however, that is worrying Canadian authorities.

Whether or not the United States participates actively in the plan, the consent of our neighbor must be given before Canada can go ahead with any project involving the waterway common to both countries. While Senate approval must be obtained for American partnership in construction of the seaway, the President himself can authorize official consent for Canada to go it alone. This President Truman has indicated he will do if necessary.

But the revival of hope that the Senate committee may now, or in the future, approve American participation, could conceivably move the President to delay the green light for Canada. He would do this in the hope that a few months' postponement might result in the United States taking part in the work.

The dual undertaking, of course, would be preferable to a one-nation development. But Ottawa now fears that this new element of indecision may put off indefinitely any hope of a commencement. The plan could be kept on ice, as it has been, for years.

That, obviously, is not good enough. Canada is entitled to an immediate, clear-cut decision by the U.S. Congress as to American intentions. A simple and definite answer, for or against, will enable us to chart our own course.

The Senator And The Generals

SEN. TAFT SAYS THAT IF HE WERE President he would dismiss the present joint chiefs of staff in Washington. He has lost confidence in the nation's top military advisers. He does not think they know how to manage the war in Asia, where the Senator, apparently, would launch Chiang's fragile armies against the Chinese mainland from which they were hurled by the Chinese people. Therefore, as President, Mr. Taft would appoint military advisers who would give him the sort of advice he wanted.

This raises an interesting issue for the consideration of the American people in the current election campaign. Are the joint chiefs of staff, the supreme military command next to the President as commander-in-chief, to become political appointees, changing, like village post masters, with every change in administration?

As The Christian Science Monitor asks: "Is there not the greatest risk in suggesting that the military opinions of our professional soldiers should 'follow the election returns'? Few will want the military to run the country, but will they wish to accept the proposition that the President, whoever he is, should dominate the military-strategic recommendations of the joint chiefs?"

That question applies with particular force to Senator Taft. For this honest and able statesman, who may yet be President, has probably made more errors of military judgment than any other considerable statesman of his time in America.

Having been all wrong about the last war, when he regarded a foreign attack on the United States as unthinkable, having opposed the North Atlantic Treaty, having tried to whittle down the Marshall Plan, Senator Taft—on this record of errors—now undertakes to tell the world's statesmen how they should conduct the struggle with Russia and the soldiers how they should fight the war in Asia.

These are all matters for the decision of the American people. What concerns the rest of the free world is that Senator Taft's apparent policy of supporting Chiang in attacking China would probably embroil his nation and everybody else in a spreading and incalculable Asiatic war and might weaken Europe irreparably. For this reason all the free peoples are deeply involved in the Senator's candidature.

A House Divided

WITH VERY FEW EXCEPTIONS, citizens in this community are interested in the prevention of cruelty to animals. They show their interest by supporting a special agency organized to see that animals are not treated callously. And society has shown its concern by approving specific laws to check abuses against those creatures who cannot speak for themselves.

This is the background against which the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals operates. Yet Victorians are constantly reading not of the efforts made by that organization to pursue its objectives, but of internal dissension in the agency itself.

There are, of course, several points on which people genuinely interested in animals and concerned over their welfare differ. Vivisection is one of them.

At the same time it is reasonable to expect that any such differences should not be allowed to interfere with the primary objective of the society. How can that aim remain steady when the society is constantly being disrupted by resignations and acrimonious disputes within the membership?

If the S.P.C.A. hopes to continue to enjoy the backing of Victorians, it should set its house in order, allow its different factions the right to their own opinions, and concentrate a little more on its purpose—the prevention of cruelty to animals—leaving continual revolution and insurrection out of its program. In a world of strife and cruelty the ideals of the S.P.C.A.—ideals which doubtless are shared by members in general—are too precious to be lost in squabbles.

LOOSE ENDS

The Prisoner's Song

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

MR Winch's threat to punish, presumably to imprison and possibly to hang, draw and quarter the editors of this newspaper for suggesting that he wants to win an election is indeed terrifying.

To investigate the punitive powers of the Legislature one of our agents has lately conferred with Mr. Wellington J. Drinkle who, as everyone remembers, was imprisoned by the Legislature some years ago for expressing the view that some politicians were trying to get re-elected, an obvious slander.

Hutchison

Mr. Drinkle's account of his imprisonment is grim and sordid. Fortunately, as he remarks, the Legislature can imprison a citizen only while it is in session and the session in his case lasted only six weeks. But they seemed like a lifetime because of the peculiarly diabolical tortures to which he was subjected.

HAVING no jail cells at its disposal, the Legislature confined Mr. Drinkle to a suite in the Empress Hotel by night and to the galleries of the House by day.

The nights weren't bad, Mr. Drinkle says, the food and drink were quite good, but, compelled to listen to the Legislature's debate day after day, Mr. Drinkle said he would have preferred one of Stalin's concentration camps or the Japanese system of torture by water.

In Russia and Japan, he pointed out, only the prisoner's body is destroyed. In the Legislature he lost his mind and hasn't been good for much since.

Still, Mr. Drinkle paid high tribute to the kindliness of his gaolers who, he thought, were really quite good fellows outside working hours.

EVERY evening, he said, Mr. Winch used to come to his prison in the Empress Hotel and read him selected extracts from the Regina Manifesto. Presently Mr. Drinkle became entirely converted to socialism and almost succeeded in converting Mr. Winch to the policy of his own party, but not quite. Mr. Winch was too wise for that.

The two would sit in the luxurious hotel suite (which cost nobody anything, of course, since it was supplied by the taxpayers), they would gaze out at the sunset over the harbor and they would see a vision of the brave new world constructed by the Winch government.

Also, just as that world clarified, with lovely castles, spires and minarets in the cloud banks over the Sooke Hills, Mr. Winch would remember that first he had to win an election. This always spoiled the evening. Mr. Winch would depart with a despairing gesture, leaving Mr. Drinkle a few paragraphs of the Manifesto to memorize.

NO sooner had Mr. Drinkle become converted to socialism, no sooner had he seen the cloud shapes in the west than Mr. Anscomb would arrive and generously explain the operations of the capitalist system. After an hour with Mr. Anscomb Mr. Drinkle became an outright capitalist, lacking only capital.

It was fascinating, he says, to hear Mr. Anscomb explain his provincial budgets, which were always too large but must always be increased. As Mr. Anscomb paced the floor reciting the figures of provincial debt, borrowings in New York and the fluctuation of interest rates, Mr. Drinkle says it was more exciting than a detective story or a movie. And when Mr. Anscomb got around to the sinking funds about midnight Mr. Drinkle had a sudden sinking feeling himself.

UNFORTUNATELY, however, Mr. Anscomb had hardly left before Mr. Wismer would appear and read him his favorite bedtime story out of Maclean's Magazine and thus, having started the evening as a socialist, having changed himself into a Conservative, Mr. Drinkle usually threw himself on the bed at dawn a confirmed Liberal and cried himself to sleep.

It was not the physical hardship which destroyed Mr. Drinkle. He emphasized again that the lodgings were luxurious, the food was high-class and now and then some good-hearted legislator would open the grating in his prison and slip him a gift of local beer or loganberry wine, which may have been illegal but was kindly meant.

WHILE the House was sitting Mr. Drinkle was supposed to remain motionless in the gallery but every now and then some member would send up a note and invite him to the restaurant for a cup of coffee and there would weep on his shoulder. (All legislators, Mr. Drinkle thinks, are lonely men, hungry for human companionship which they never receive and quite uninterested in elections.)

No, it was the mental tension that got Mr. Drinkle down. It was the ceaseless attrition of pure political theory instilled into him day and night as by a dentist's drill. It was the constant clash of high principles, the quarrel of Liberalism, Conservatism and Socialism that wrecked Mr. Drinkle's mind.

For the fact, he confesses, was that he found himself unworthy of these noble ideals. He was no fit companion for men like Messrs. Winch, Anscomb and Wismer. He could not remain at their elevation without suffocating. The air on these heights was too rare for him.

BY the end of the session Mr. Drinkle was really unfit for any useful occupation. He was not quite idiotic enough to be confined comfortably at the taxpayer's expense in an institution nor sane enough to make a living. There is nothing left for him, he supposes, but to run for the legislature.

After listening to Mr. Bennett (who kindly supplied him with the works of Major Douglas, Major Jukes, and other major prophets of that doctrine) Mr. Drinkle will run for the Social Credit Party. He says it just suits his present state of mind. But after their kindness he feels like a traitor to Mr. Anscomb and Mr. Wismer and sometimes, looking through the eyes of Mr. Winch, he still sees those noble spires in the clouds of sunset.

The Six-Motor Job Needs Some Tuning Up

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

COL. S. SKEFFINGTON-SMUTTS (Ret.) approached me the other day with a letter in his hand and said: "Boy, I wish you would read this epistle from my brother, Percy. I'm afraid the poor chap is in rather desperate straits."

Secretly that was all right with me because Percy Skeffington-Smutts is threatening to come and live with us, along with the Colonel and his wife, Anastasia, and Hamish and Little Augie. Percy is a D.P. from Afghanistan or Baluchistan, or some such place, and as far as I am concerned—living in the shed as I and my family are doing—he can get lost.

Sturdy

But the Colonel looked so unhappy and disturbed that I had to take the letter from him.

Dear Brother (the letter said), I have arrived in some abominable place by the name of Saint John, New Brunswick, and I cannot stop shivering. When I got off the ship I was so cold that I immediately made inquiries as to where I could find the nearest pub, but the natives merely stared at me. Obviously these local Eskimos do not understand English. I then waited for a St. Bernard dog to succor me with a bottle of brandy, but evidently they are all out of St. Bernards, or all out of brandy, or both. It is most distressing.

I really should blame you, Stacey, for your misleading letters about Canada and that island where it never rains or snows and the sun shines all the time. If this was a whimsical fancy of yours, brother, I fail to appreciate it, dressed as I am in the only things I brought with me—khaki shorts, pongee shirt and pith helmet. Little imbeciles run through the streets of this impossible hamlet, pointing and shouting: "Look, mama—bare knees!" It is most disconcerting.

No one here seems to have heard of this island where you are living. Every time I mention British Columbia I am rewarded with a speech about something called Maritime Rights, and all I can ascertain is that British Columbia is somewhere on the other side of Upper Canada.

However, I understand there is a train which leaves here for the west, so I will most certainly take it—that is, old boy, as soon as you dash over to the nearest telegraph office and send me the necessary $$$.

The fact is, old boy, that I am absolutely busted. Now, I know you will ask me about Aunt Amelia's legacy and whatnot, but if you had been in my position, Stacey, you would have done the same thing.

That is, if you had met Buttons.

A really charming girl, and with such a tragic story. She's American, you know, and I met her on the boat. We had cocktails together and she told me about her family—she comes from fine old Southern stock. South Brooklyn, I believe she said. Well, it seems, she is trying to hold on to the old plantation, but her mother has been a cripple since childhood, and she has three mad sisters.

Well, it seems that the family also own a bridge in Brooklyn, and in order to save the old plantation Buttons is selling shares in this bridge. She says it is quite a nice bridge and I agreed to purchase a 20 per cent share. She was most grateful.

But it left me rather strapped, old boy. And also my knees are freezing. So please hurry up and send the money. Your affectionate brother, Percy.

"So you see," said the Colonel, after I had finished reading the letter, "we really have to help poor Percy."

"Certainly we'll help him," I said. "We'll send him some knee-pads."

But I don't know. I think he's going to get to the island somehow. The Skeffington-Smutts always do.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"NATURE'S creatures," said the Elevator Man, "are a pretty good-hearted bunch in their way. We're always reading about some cow that's mothering a baby deer, or a pup that's providing a free milk bar for kittens, or cats that share their food saucer with chickens. Maybe the incidents aren't common or they wouldn't make news, but they're frequent enough to make us familiar with the proxy idea. And usually the adopted young ones thrive on the foster treatment. This probably proves something, if we could think of what it is. But it doesn't always work out so well. I see where in Australia a family has brought a vulture up as a pet. They also have a baby boy about half a year old. And several times a day, according to a news item, the vulture flies over the baby's cot on the veranda and tries to drop worms, scorpions and centipedes into its mouth. Going down!

Tobin

"The mothering instinct," said the Elevator Man, "is all right in its place, but it has limits. You can reach a point where the 'aid' you're giving the object of attention can actually be harmful. And mother doesn't have to be a vulture to achieve that. Take some of the help a loving state sometimes tries to thrust on an orphan public. Even though the help seems good from some points of view—and what baby vulture wouldn't be happy with some tender worms, scorpions and centipedes?—it can be mighty bad for the recipient. A public that gets too much given to it for free, or at any rate apparently for free, can get indigestion just as much as a baby with a scorpion for supper. Some things you have to work for if you're going to assimilate them properly. Whether it's worms and scorpions, or bread and circuses, it's best to check up now and then and see whether the volunteer mama is using a healthful formula. Lower main!

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "lots of babies aren't in a position to pick and choose, and you can't blame them for taking what they can get. Like when the new father looked in the babies' ward at the maternity hospital and found them all crying. 'Why is that?' he asked the nurse. 'Say,' she answered, 'if you were only a few days old, had no clothes, were out of a job and owed more than a thousand dollars on the national debt, you'd be bawling too'."

You Can Never Go Back

By STUART KEATE

ON THE 7th of March, 1945, His Majesty's Canadian cruiser Uganda was rounding the southern tip of Australia in heavy seas, bound for Sydney and the Pacific war beyond.

Exactly seven years later—on March 7, 1952—at the kind invitation of the navy, I went back on board the ship which had been my home for the best part of a year.

Keate

I did so with misgivings. "The remembrance of past happiness," wrote Voltaire, "adds an insupportable weight to our ills." But the sun was shining; the snow-capped Olympics stood out in bold relief; the air was keen and the sea blue.

Now, newly painted and refurbished at her Esquimalt jetty, the ship was ready to enter on a new chapter in her somewhat turbulent history. The royal prefix was "Her" rather than "His." During the war, 903 men had been crammed into her 555-foot length of steel. Now there were about 550. With two or three exceptions, they were new men.

Living in close quarters like that, a man gets to know a ship very well. Even under conditions of "darken ship" he could make his way from the ward-room to the bridge in less than half a minute:

(Up a ladder; side-step that ammunition hoist; feel the hot blast of the engine-room suckout; across the boat-deck; up two perpendicular ladders; a few steps up to the signals bridge; a fourth ladder to the gunnery control position; duck through the Director Control Tower; and voila!)

Everything comes back, in sweet-sad pageant. The wind singing in the ship's wires. The fascination of the water running down the side. The power and the glory as one looks aft from the control tower; the ensign fluttering along the lean, grey length of the hull, and the sea boiling out astern.

There are other, more personal, memories:

Here, by the Bofors gun, a man collapsed, and here in the hangar a lean, aging sailmaker sewed him into canvas. . . .

Here, on the quarter-deck, a man read a prayer; shots were fired; and the sack weighted with shell casings splashed into the waters by New Guinea. . . .

Here, on this very combing, a man tripped, grabbed wildly, and came up beneath, shattered, his fingers throbbing violently. . . .

MAJESTIC VOICE

Here, in this little cabin, a boy with a beard changed records: ("Play 'Sweet Lorraine,' by Art Tatum, won't you, son?") and here the majestic voice from England cried (May 8, 1945):

"Advance, Britannia! Long live the cause of Freedom! God Save The King!"

Here, in this very room, a cockroach started across the bulkhead. He never made it: slain by a veritable tornado of knives, forks and spoons which clattered to the floor amid the laughter of lonely men. . . .

Here, on this Carley float, two men sat talking about war, in an incredibly peaceful setting: a full moon on the Indian Ocean, the ship heaving and swelling gently to the throb of her engines. And one of the men said: "We shall soon become a useful member of society. . ."

I went back to all the familiar places. The old cabin. Furniture rearranged. Gone the line of cord, with the white stockings hung up to dry. Gone the bundle of letters, tied with blue ribbon. Gone the dismal cleaning-basin, malevolently handled by an unhappy steward.

I went below to the communications office, where we used to mimeograph the daily news-bulletin, in temperatures ranging up to 110 degrees. A sign on the door said, "Do not enter without permission," but I opened it.

A young man in blue dungarees regarded me coldly. His look was frankly hostile. "Yes?" he asked.

"Nothing," I said. "Nothing at all."

* * *

The ship sails today. She has a new name—Her Majesty's Canadian Ship Quebec.

By a mere stroke of naval legerdemain she obliterated her past. The Uganda is gone, forgotten by all but a few who sailed in her, until some new ship comes along to assume her name.

The Quebec accedes to the battle honors of past Quebecs—ancient ships of the line, their records dimly remembered. "We've written away for them," an officer said. "When they come, we'll put them up."

BILL GUARDS MARGARINE'S MANUFACTURE

Wismer's Amendment Wins Wide Support

An amendment to the Oleomargarine Act, introduced in the Legislature Monday, provides for strict supervision of the manufacture and sale by government inspectors.

The amendment was introduced by Attorney-General Gordon Wismer.

Defeated was an amendment by Alex Hope (P.C., Delta), which would have required that margarine could not be colored "the yellow color recognized as the yellow color of butter."

Wismer explained that it would have nullified the amendment permitting coloring by the manufacturer, as introduced in the Legislature by Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Ind., Vancouver-Point Grey), and approved on second reading.

INSPECTORS' POWER

Under the amendment, government inspetcors will be empowered to:

Enter and search any place manufacturing, storing or selling margarine, or any vehicle carrying it, or any eating place;

Inspect any margarine found in such places and take samples for testing;

Require production of books, shipping bills or papers relating to margarine;

Inspect the packages, wrappers or containers or the printing on packages.

The amendment provides that no person shall make a misleading claim with respect to margarine, either by word, inference or design, in an advertisement, placard or a package containing margarine.

By an overwhelming vote, the amended bill went through the committee stage.

Next step is third reading. After that the Lieutenant-Governor must give Royal assent—usually on the last day of the session.

Province Should Drive Harder Bargains Claim

Rupert Haggen (C.C.F., Grand Forks-Greenwood) advised the government Monday night to drive harder bargains with the big timber companies under the forest management license plan.

Haggen, continuing the budget debate, said a report filed in the Legislature last week showed a considerable portion of B.C. Crown timber land already covered by licenses or applications.

"I can understand that an industry will want to ensure its supply of raw material," said Haggen. "That is reasonable. But the forest management applications in many cases go beyond all reason in the areas they want to have set aside for them."

He said one mill is applying for a license covering the whole Quesnel River watershed which is capable of supplying Engelman spruce in perpetuity, with only the crudest of forest management, for two pulp mills the size of Powell River.

The member suggested that the government is not doing its duty in the maintenance of district roads in the province.

House Should Advise Premier, King Urges

Premier Byron Johnson got a little free advise in the Legislature Monday from Tom King (Gov., Columbia), who was making what probably will be his last speech before retirement.

King

King said whenever a momentous question of policy is to be decided, the government leader should call in all the members and get their advice.

"In counsel of many, there is wisdom," said King.

He may have been referring to Premier Johnson's firing of former finance minister Herbert Anscomb, leading to the Coalition break-up.

Another idea King tossed the government way: "Have all government-owned cars painted a distinctive color to prevent their use for pleasure by civil servants."

He said there are government cars all over the province being used privately at tremendous public cost.

In saying what amounted to "good-bye" to the House, the Golden member said he couldn't find words adequately to express himself.

"It's been a wonderful experience," he said.

He has been a member for 20 years.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

Peter Rabbit had done a lot of useless wishing, and useless wishing is foolish wishing. He had been trapped in the underground house of Prickly Porky the Porcupine over in the Green Forest. Hooty the big Owl that lives over there had chased him into that house. Peter hadn't known who lived there until he got inside. Then he had discovered that Prickly Porky was at home in his bedroom.

It was then that Peter had done some useless wishing. He wished that he had stayed at home in the dear Old Briar-patch, as he should have done, and as Mrs. Peter so often tried to make him do. Peter knew that Hooty was waiting outside, and he knew that if Prickly Porky should take a notion to want to go out, he, Peter, would be in a dreadful fix.

That very thing happened. It sharpened Peter's wits. He looked for a back hall and a back door, and he found them. The back door was closed with dirt and leaves, because it had not ben used for a long time. Hurriedly, Peter dug it open. He poked his head outside, looking carefully all around for Hooty the Owl. He caught a glimpse of Hooty flying back toward the lonesome place where Mrs. Hooty was sitting on eggs in their nest. Prickly Porky, grunting and whining, was shuffling toward a tree in which he would very likely stay for a day or two.

Peter took to his long heels and away he went lipperty lip, lipperty lip, lipperty lip. Now and then he rolled his eyes back so as to look behind him and see if he was being followed. He expected every minute to have Hooty the Owl after him. You see, he didn't know that Hooty the Owl was in trouble, that when Prickly Porky had come outside, Hooty had mistaken him for Peter, and before he had discovered his mistake had brushed one foot against Prickly Porky with the result that two of Prickly Porky's little spears had entered that foot, making it very sore.

"I'll never come over here again," thought Peter. "No, sir, I'll never come over to this part of the Green Forest again. Anyway, I found out what I wanted to know."

Peter was well on his way to the edge of the Green Forest when he met his big cousin, Jumper the Hare. Jumper was dressed all in white, as he always is in winter. "It is so!" cried Peter, as soon as he was near enough.

"What is so?" asked Jumper.

"Mrs. Hooty is sitting on eggs!" cried Peter.

"I heard that some time ago," replied Jumper.

"But you didn't know it was so," cried Peter, "you said so yourself."

"No," agreed Jumpr. "I didn't know it. What is more, I didn't care whether it is so or not."

Peter was a little disappointed. He dearly loves to carry news, and it was disappointing not to have his cousin interested in that news. He didn't even ask how Peter had found out that it was true that Mrs. Hooty was really sitting on eggs. Of course Peter had to tell him.

Tremors Rock Yukon, Japan; Not Felt Here

An "after shock" from Japan and a quake in the Yukon left "fairly strong" impressions Sunday on the seismograph at Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain. But they were undistinguishable here on the delicate instrument.

The two shocks came within three hours of one another and showed up distinctly among a number of minor tremors recorded during the week-end at the observatory.

The first occurred at 9.14 a.m. (P.S.T.) at a point estimated to be about 4,300 miles from here. It was traced to Japan where a sharp earth tremor jolted Hokkaido and northern Honshu, flattening scores of houses weakened by last Tuesday's heavy quake.

An Associated Press report said at least 17 Japanese were injured and possibly 113 houses demolished by the upheaval. The Tokyo meteorological observatory noted it had recorded about 100 after-shocks since the disastrous Tuesday quake.

The Yukon shock recorded here at 12.03 p.m. (PST) and was estimated to be centred about 1,490 miles away, close to Dawson. This tremor shook houses in Juneau, Alaska, rattling windows and dishes, cracking plaster and stopping clocks.

Both the Japanese and Yukon tremors were registered on the Columbia University seismograph in New York, as well as here.

Mainguy Expected To Visit Victoria

Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, Chief of Naval Staff at Ottawa, is expected to be in Victoria either late in April or early in May.

Naval sources here said they have heard the admiral may visit here sometime between April 24 and May 4, but know nothing about the length of stay.

Naval Officers' Association of Victoria said the naval chief is expected here April 24 "and will address a meeting of the association on April 30."

THEIR FRIENDS SHUN THEM

Few Complaints From Hoof-Mouth Victims

By JOHN LEBLANC

REGINA, March 11 (CP) — "You'd think a fellow had smallpox," farmer Jim Moore said.

Sandy-haired Jim is one of the little growers caught up in the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease among cattle. Not only has he lost his herd of purebred shorthorns, but his life and his family's has been turned upside down.

His farm on the rolling banks of the Wascana Creek is under quarantine, a yellow placard splashing against the snow. His animals have been shot and bulldozed under the frozen ground. His friends don't come too near to him.

"They don't say anything," Jim says. "But I see them edging away from me in the filling station and the stores. Pretty careful about not walking in my footsteps in the snow, too.

"Well, I don't blame them. Who wants to lose his herd?"

The Moore's have had their ups and downs, before the blow of hoof-and-mouth hit. Jim was a hired man for years, coming here from Vankleek Hill in Ontario. For the last half dozen years, he's been renting this place 16 miles out of Regina.

He grows wheat on the 250 acres above the creek and was getting some ready cash and milk for the family from the cattle. He has been putting his teen-age youngsters through school, two in Regina and one at nearby Lumden.

Farmer Moore said about his only complaint on the whole business is that the basis of payments doesn't seem to take into account the idea that a grower has to take cash off his herd from time to time to keep going.

"Otherwise," he said, "I'm satisfied. No complaints about the doctors or others. They're all doing a good job."

Now that he and some of his neighbors are somewhat social lepers generally because of the disease, he and a few farmers in the area whose herds have been wiped out have organized the "Hoof-and-Mouth Bridge Club." It meets at the call of the host over the many-party rural phone lines.

"It's probably the most exclusive bridge club in the country, not even sending out for a fourth into non-disease territory.

N.Y. Edges Up As Rails Lead Market Gains

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP). —Progress in the railroad division today encouraged the stock market in a forward movement.

Gains ran to around two points at the best while losses were cut off at around a point at the most.

Volume of trading came to an estimated 1,200,000 shares, below the average so far this year.

Rails were steady at the start while the market as a whole was mixed. As the government made progress towartl a settlement of the strike, the railroad division swung higher.

Oils joined in the advance, posting the best gains of any major division.

Canadian issues were mostly lower.

On the curb, Giant Yellowknife slipped ⅛, and Royalite Oil skidded ¼. Lake Shore remained unchanged.

Montreal Off

MONTREAL, March 11 (CP). —Stock prices remained slightly lower near the close today on the Montreal Stock Exchange and curb market.

Papers formed the weakest group after irregular forenoon support faded. Senior metals, senior oils and beverages followed the general trend.

Steels, banks, utilities and miscellaneous industrials mixed plus and minus signs. Carriers remained a trifle higher.

Canada Cement advanced one point to 78¼.

Mines and western oils weakened following a mixed morning price path. Changes ranged to about 25 cents in moderate trading.

Toronto Steady

TORONTO, March 11 (CP)— Stock market prices showed few changes today toward the session's close after early weakness depressed all sections.

Trading opened actively, moderated and then picked up again by midafternoon. Industrial dealings remained in selected leading issues, but a scattered list of golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Punch Petroleum was a standout as it jumped about 60 cents in a turnover of more than 230,000 shares.

Papers, liquors and refining oils led industrials lower while manufacturing companies and utilities weakened steadily. Banks, foods and constructions held gains and losses in balance while steels and textiles pushed upward.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents.

Vancouver Off

VANCOUVER. — Noon close. Western oils were again the leaders in trading at Vancouver stock exchange in the forenoon session and some selective gains showed up to offset somewhat larger setbacks which tended to bring the market average down slightly.

Britalta went back another 20 to close at $8.20; Calvan at $7.05 was ahead 25c; Federated Pete at $9.20 was off 10; New Continental at $1.95 gained five; MacDougall Segur at 37c was up a point; Hillcrest went to 68c, up seven.

Mines were mostly on the offside. Estella was unchanged; Kootenay Belle and Quatsino slipped a couple of points; Western Uranium closed at $3.90, down 10.

London Easier

LONDON, March 11 (Reuters) —A tendency to move away from domestic into overseas issues was noted today in the stock market.

After some irregular movements, industrials took an easier course showing losses of a few pence but this section was never really tested. Hardest hit were textiles and motors in further response to the Australian import cuts.

Gilt edged bonds recorded minor gains. Foreign bonds which opened at overnight closing levels firmed during the session.

Japanese bonds held gains of one point and Germans a half point. Shipping shares were generally mixed and a little end-account selling occurred in some speculative favorites.

Gold shares had a quiet day although there was some occasional hardening. Coppers improved to show a small general advance with Rhodesian Anglo ninepence better at 62 shillings. Tin shares were dull.

LONDON, March 11 (AP)—Stocks close: Babcock & Wilcox 67s 6d, Boots Pure Drug 18s 6d, Canadian Pacific $66¼, Central Mining £1 31/32, Consolidated Gold Fields 51s 10½d, Courtaulds 39s 4d, Hudson's Bay Co. 177s 6d, Imperial Chemical 41s 7½d, Imperial Tobacco 85s 7d, Metal Box 43s, Mexican Eagle 23s 7d, Rand Mines 110s.

Bonds: British 2½ per cent Consols £89⅝, British 3½ per cent War Loans £78¼, British Fundings 4s 1960-1990 £98½.

BUYING BALANCE

Bigger Stocks Bear Down On Price Line

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

Manufacturers in Canada have bigger stocks of goods on hand than ever before, according to the latest survey by the Federal Bureau of Statistics.

At first glance it looks as if there is a big pile of goods, unsold, which should be a bulwark against higher prices and should soon help turn the price line back.

Cahill

However, the bureau points out that there is a lot more business being done and the big inventories are not, in fact, too high.

That's too bad in a way, but it does show that production in Canada may yet be the real, permanent solution for the problem of steeply rising prices.

MORE BUYING

Apparently, Canada is making a lot more household and industrial goods but at the same time people are getting more.

The British Columbia bureau of economics and statistics, in its latest survey of business conditions in the province, reveals that retail trade here for the full year of 1951 was up 7.3 per cent over the previous 12 months.

The estimate of sales for all Canada is a gain of 5 per cent from a year ago.

The increase in prices in the past year will account for part of the higher level of sales.

And the gain in inventories, over-all, is put by the federal bureau at only 2 per cent.

BALANCE

So it does look as if Canada has just about reached a balance between what she makes and what people use.

This leaves out the goods brought in from outside and those sent out of the country. But these are included, to some extent, in the volume of manufacturers' inventories since many of the plants here are allied with U.S. plants in operations and most Canadian trade is done with the U.S.

The federal bureau's survey concludes by saying that the stocks of goods on hand here are necessary for present business conditions. In other words, the stocks of goods just about equal the demand from the public for them.

This is a healthy condition, over-all, but does not include any sharp price drops at the present pace of business.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, March 11 (CP)— Fair gains again were scored across the board in all grain prices today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, influenced in part by firmness on United States markets.

Commercial demand was good, with shippers taking both oats and barley. Seaboard buying came out in barley in connection with small export business.

American houses picked up oats, rye and flax. Offerings were light in all grains, with no evidence of hedging sales.

Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 455,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 185,000 to Belgium and 300,000 to Japan.

Prices for class two wheat and I.W.A. were down one-eighth cent from yesterday.

Time Out For Emergency Repairs

Goal-keeper of Army's Commercial Hockey League team, Doug Boettcher, had a busy and painful time Monday night as he tried to quell the powerful attack of Victoria Merchants in the third game of the semi-finals. Boettcher was hit in the neck by a hard shot from Merchants' Rod Jensen that bounced off Jimmy Gallant. The puck opened a nasty gash in Boettcher's neck and he was taken to hospital. While the Army trainer works over him, interested Merchants at left are Ken Gunter, Bill Jensen and Rod Jensen. Number 6 is Bill Reynolds while the worried soldier at right is Stew Vary. Merchants won 8-2.

Anxious Sailors Gain Final; Merchants Win

Seven-Ups Eliminated; Army One Game Behind

Merchants 8, Army 2
Navy 6, Seven-Ups 3

By DENNY BOYD

You may have noticed that players on Navy's Commercial Hockey League team fly around Memorial Arena as if the devil himself was in pursuit of them. That's the way they win hockey games—on sheer blinding speed.

But rumor has it that there is a little more propulsion behind the sailors than the fact they like winning. The grape vine has it that the Navy club will be cut to ribbons at the end of this month by that old bugaboo of service coaches, the sea draft.

While the brass of the team will neither confirm nor deny it, it seems that goalie Stan Spark, defensemen Art Riches, Ray Shedlowski and Paul LaPointe and forwards Paul Wannamaker and Rene LaVerne will leave the club at the end of the month to join H.M.C.S. Quebec which was slated to depart today.

A GOOD REASON

So that is why the Navy has been skating so hard—they want to finish off the semi-finals and finals before the blow strikes. It's just like the train engineer who was going 90 miles an hour because he wanted to get to Chicago before a loose wheel fell off.

If the sailors can take the finals in four or five games they will be all right but if the series goes to the seven game limit it could be rough on them.

OFF AND RUNNING

They took the first big step in their "hurry-up" program Monday night when they polished off Seven-Ups 6-3 to win the semi-finals in three straight games and qualify for the finals against the winner of the Army-Merchants series.

Merchants meanwhile took a strangle-hold on their best-of five series by copping an 8-2 win from Army to take a 2-1 series lead. Merchants can finish it off Wednesday night if they beat the soldiers.

It was the same story for the Navy—they outskated Seven-Ups from here to there and were only kept from scoring a dozen goals by the heroic efforts of Seven-Up goalie Buck Schlievert, who had an exhausting workout. Seven-Ups never quit trying.

After taking a 4-1 lead in the first period, Navy were held scoreless in the second frame but banged in two more goals in the last period. Seven-Ups matched Navy in the last frame.

PRODUCTIVE LINE

The hustling line of Ivan Wood, Paul Wannamaker and Johnny Bond paid the largest dividend for Navy, accounting for four of the eight goals.

Merchants were full value for their win over Army. The soldiers took the ice with only 10 players, Rocky Nash being the latest to be side-lined as a result of the broken shoulder sustained last week.

The Merchant wings were flying all night and the soldiers, working to the point of exhaustion, were unable to keep up.

Connie McBeth pushed Merchants into a first period 1-0 lead when he flipped a short back-hander over the prostrate form of goalie Doug Boettcher.

TOO MUCH POWER

In the second period, Rudy Pishco, Cliff Coulter and Ken Gunter slapped in successive goals for Merchants before balding veteran Gus Moran tallied Army's first goal.

Merchants refused to pull the el foldo as they did last week, however, and rapped in four more goals before the period ended, sandwiching a dying gasp by Rod Hallam who got the second Army marker.

On Wednesday night Merchants and Army go into the fourth game of their series at 9. In the preliminary, starting at 7.30, the Victoria Junior All-Stars will meet Nanaimo in the second game of a two-game total-goal series for the island junior crown.

STAMPS FORCE ISSUE

Cougars Face Biggest Test

This issue is a simple one; it's the ramifications that are complex.

Victoria Cougars meet Vancouver Canucks tonight in a game that probably won't in itself decide the final disposition of sixth place in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, but which will go a long way towards indicating the possible trend.

Calgary Stampeders, having beaten New Westminster Royals Monday, 7-5, to gain a full game on the Cougars and Canucks, the scene now moves to Vancouver Forum.

Canucks enter the contest with 49 minutes and a 6-5 lead of a protested game with Tacoma in hand over the Cougars, plus a season's record of superiority that is measured in eight victories, three defeats and one tie.

Not since the season's opener have the Cougars beaten the Canucks at home.

CATS ANXIOUS

However, with an air of play-off fever pervading the club and a record of four straight victories to back up the demand for recognition, the Cougars fully realize the seriousness of the situation.

A victory will give them an edge, if only temporarily, over the Canucks, a tie with the Stamps, and also a leg up on the first half of the important double with the Canucks whom they meet here a week from today.

A defeat would leave the Cougars the unenvious task of winning their remaining five games with no assurance even then of a playoff berth as both Calgary and Vancouver would have to lose another game, possibly more.

NO CHANCES

At any rate, the Cougar management is taking no chances of a possible seasick victim. All 17 players on the payroll were scheduled to make the trip with the starting 15 likely to be decided just before game time.

Meanwhile, mathematicians with pencils poised will be prepared to diagnose the result as it pertains to Victoria, Vancouver and Calgary, the parties most concerned.

Royals had it all their own way for two-thirds of the game, leading 4-0 at one time in the second period. But then, like the sudden drop of a guillotine, the blow fell.

Ernie Dickens got one for Calgary while Royals were a man short and from there on the Royals were a punctured balloon.

Frank Ashworth potted three Calgary markers in the last period to lead the tremendous last ditch assault. He completed the Calgary scoring at 19.23 of the last period.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

Back from the British Columbia Golden Gloves in Vancouver, Alan Duval expressed disappointment at the showing of the Victoria contingent but believes he knows the answer to the problem.

Facilities in Vancouver are better . . . inter-club competition is keener and better planned . . . club meets give youngsters the opportunity to study different styles . . . centrally-located gymnasiums allow for better quarters and training. . . .

Duval's first move Monday was an attempt to secure a central headquarters in the city proper for members of all Victoria clubs. . . . He also revealed that three and possibly four Victorians will take part in the Canadian Olympic trials in Vancouver May 1. . . . They are Bert Wilkinson, Earl Vance and Paul Calvey. . . . Bob Thompson would also have a good chance if he would take his boxing seriously, asserts Duval, who rates Calvey as a definite comer. . . . Calvey, who has only had seven fights, was beaten by a young veteran with five years' experience at Vancouver. . . .

Walker

Duval also plans to protest to B.C. Boxing Association officials over the refereeing on the mainland in which he says "the referees appear to cater to the crowd, not the fighters." . . . He admits, however, that it wasn't the refereeing that beat the Victoria boys. . . . Perhaps the real complaint rests with the Vancouver commission . . . mainland boxers don't fight as cleanly as the Victoria boys are taught. . . .

* * *

That protested tie game between Vancouver and Tacoma may be the biggest point in the Pacific Coast Hockey League race. . . . The Canucks could squeeze another point out of the deal as they now lead that game, 6-5, with 11 minutes to play. . . .

Tacoma's Muzz Patrick wanted the entire game replayed but was overruled by league president Al Leader. . . . It will only be finished if it is likely to affect the league standings, and will be played on March 21 when the Rockets invade Vancouver for the final time. . . . Jack Short, well-known racing figure in Vancouver, sends word over that harness racing could be included in any plans for a race track in Victoria . . . and furthermore, Victoria lacrosse fans will welcome an old favorite back this year but in different livery. . . . It's Bill Dickinson who has applied for a refereeing position in the Intercity League. . . . Bill handled part of the Mann Cup playoffs last fall. . . .

It's getting near tee time again and word is that CJVI will handle the Vancouver Island Match Play Open beginning at Colwood, April 6 and concluding six weeks later. . . . Ted Reynolds will air Saturday night's Island inter-high hoop final from the Vic High gym. . . . Leo Ornest, Cougars' promotions director, is officiating the B.C. puck playdowns between Nanaimo and Kelowna. . . . First all-star team to be received here from a fan who wishes to remain anonymous (initials D.J.) has Lucien Dechene in goal, Pat Coburn and Vic Lofvendahl on defense, Eddie Dorohoy at centre, Johnny Chad on right wing and Moe Young on left wing.

Entries for the Empress Golf tourney at Colwood beginning March 31 have reached 128 (90 men, 38 ladies). . . . And, of all things, Tommy McKeachie was talking about "cricket" on Saturday night's hockey broadcast from Tacoma. . . .

* * *

In Orient, Illinois, there is a girl playing for the boys' grade school basketball team. . . . However, she was barred from a recent tournament because the other team objected to playing against a girl. . . . Then there's the story Eddie Haddad tells on himself. . . . When Eddie was just starting he was up against a classy opponent one night. . . . He belted the guy so hard he knocked him to the canvas. . . . Befuddled at this surprising turn of events, Eddie went over and helped lift his opponent to his feet while the referee was tolling the count. . . . Seattle University's Johnny O'Brien has already been picked on several All-American teams with University of Washington's Bob Houbregs also gaining the same honor. . . .

With the next two games of the senior A men's basketball playoffs at Alberni, Harry Kermode and his charges stand an excellent chance of pilfering the loot. . . . Then there was the Vancouver report which classed Kermode, one of the top players in the province, as a "spare." . . .

Plans Laid For Ten-Team Loop

Senior amateur baseball in the form of a Victoria entry in 10-team Vancouver Island league will return to the city this year if plans made at Chemainus Sunday materialize.

And according to spokesman and Victoria delegate Rookie Wright, "there is no reason why they shouldn't."

Wright disclosed that formation of the 10-team league, divided into two divisions, northern and southern, was approved by delegates representing all centres concerned except the Royal Canadian Navy.

Navy, it is reported, are anxious to enter a team in the league, but must first receive approval from naval command.

The southern division would be composed of teams from Navy, Victoria (last year's Eagles), Chemainus, Duncan and Nanaimo.

The five-team northern division section would include Courtenay, Comox, Campbell River, Alberni and Parksville.

TWO SCHEDULES

It is planned to play a regular schedule within each division with teams receiving week-end byes to play inter-divisional games through the season.

Champions of each division will meet for the Island championship at the conclusion of the regular schedule.

It is hoped to start the season on or about May 15. Final details will be worked out at a meeting in Nanaimo, March 23, at the home of newly elected president, Dave Dunn.

The Island Baseball League will adopt a new constitution and replaces the former Upper Island League, Mid-Island League and Victoria Baseball Association.

Wright reported that all delegates were extremely keen on the formation of the new circuit and emphasized the need for a determined drive to put amateur baseball back in the respected place it once held in the community.

Majority of games in Victoria would be arranged on week-ends when the Tyees are on the road. Mid-week games could be scheduled between Victoria and Navy. Games would be played at Athletic Park.

Visits of touring teams will be encouraged, Wright said, disclosing the fact that such units are good drawing cards, especially Up-Island.

Bill Prior also represented Victoria at the meeting.

Tyees Show Profit And Loss In Player Deals

This disclosure was made by general manager Reg Patterson, who reported that Ben Lorino had agreed to terms, but that Bill Osborn had requested to be placed on the voluntary retired list.

Lorino balked at the original offer made by the Tyees, "but we had no difficulty ironing out the problem," Patterson said.

Osborn, a control pitcher who enjoyed mediocre success last year, plans to return to school.

Hal Danielson, purchased by the Tyees two years ago, but who was out of baseball last year, has requested his release. Danielson believes he can secure a managerial position with a Class D team. Patterson has refused the request as the Tyees wish to protect their monetary outlay.

CONTRACT RETURNED

Further contract trouble, but of a minor nature, according to Patterson, comes with the returned contract of Bob Moniz.

Moniz is an outfielder from Visalia of the California State League and of whom manager Cec Garriott spoke highly. He is a free agent.

Hal Jackson, Bill White and Gene Thompson are still dissatisfied with terms of their contracts, but this is causing no undue alarm. "We will likely make a trade if we have to," Patterson said.

THREE-WAY TIE

Soccer Race Tightens

Mount View and Victoria High School jumped into a three-way tie with Oak Bay for first place in the Inter-High School Soccer League as they posted wins over slumping Mount Douglas and Esquimalt XI's Monday.

Gary Crowe sparked the Mount View senior squad to their 3-1 victory over cellar-dwelling Esquimalt.

Coming back into the game early in the second half, Esquimalt's George Wright tied the contest.

Minutes later, however, Abdar Singh came back to score the winning goal for Mount View after a goal-mouth scramble, and was followed up shortly by Crowe's second marker coming on a break 10 minutes later.

At Mount Douglas, Vic High went momentarily hog-wild, scoring a decisive 7-3 victory over the suburbanites.

Making the most of all scoring opportunities, the Fernwood squad slipped the ball past the Mount Douglas goalkeeper four times before the half, and three times in the second half.

Ray Powell Cinch For Scoring Race

NEW YORK, March 11 (AP)—Ray Powell, 26-year-old centre of Providence Reds, enters the final week of play in the American Hockey League virtually assured of the scoring championship and assist crown.

The veteran sharpshooter also is in the running for the goal-getting title. Powell has tallied 35 goals, two less than Wochy's pace-setting 37.

Powell, who has two games to play, previously won scoring titles with Kansas City of the erstwhile United States League in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

Canadien Rookie On Injured List

MONTREAL, March 11 (CP). Dickie Moore, Canadiens' fast-skating rookie, is in hospital undergoing treatment for badly-bruised knees, it was announced Monday.

He will be out of action for Thursday night's game with Toronto Maple Leafs here and may also miss the week-end games with Boston Bruins.

He may be replaced by Ross Lowe.

WANTED—A PERMANENT HOME

Local Boxers Need A Hand

The trip to Vancouver for the British Columbia Golden Gloves over the week-end proved two things for Victoria's boxing coaches Nick Lystar, Ed Duffin and Al Duval:

1. The Victoria boys were vulnerable to a good left hand.

2. Boxing in Victoria needs more support.

The first difficulty will be cleared up before long—Duffin has laid plans for an extensive program of defensive boxing for all his fighters.

It was obvious from Vancouver tourney that Victoria's boxers, as boxers, are just as good as the Vancouver boys. Nearly all the fights ended in the third round after the Victoria boys had looked like contenders for the first two rounds. They just didn't have the steam for three rounds.

It wasn't entirely the boys' fault for not being in shape. They have trained diligently but with the inadequate facilities at their disposal.

Apparent need is a proper gym with a permanent ring where the clubs can work together. As it is now, the clubs work independently, none with suitable equipment. Naturally the boys all learn the same style of boxing—that of their coach. When a big meet comes up they run into two or three different styles and are not equipped to cope with diversified attacks.

If the clubs had a common working place, each club retaining its separate identity and working under separate coaches, inter-club fights could be staged every night and all boxers would be exposed to other styles of fighting.

Nick Lystar, coach of the Esquimalt club, says. "I don't know why we can't get more help from the people but no one wants to give a cent for boxing. If we could get a place like Prince Robert House, where we could erect a permanent ring and have all the clubs and all the coaches working together, we'd be as strong as Vancouver in no time."

Duffin, a man for whom the boys have the deepest respect and affection says, "How can we teach our lads all they need to know in the short time we get them together at a big tournament?" Navy's Romeo Brun is a good example. Duffin and Lystar worked on Brun for 10 days prior to the Golden Gloves and taught him to throw a left hook that took him into the finals although he had only two previous fights.

The next event for the local boys is the British Columbia Silver Gloves in Vancouver, March 29.

Esquimalt will be sending Gordy and Tommy McGaw, Terry Hallam, Dave Bruce, Doug Cameron, Butch Goddard and Bobby Thompson.

St. Louis College is priming Rusty Gropp; the City Police Club is sending Jim Moody and James Bay will send Jerry Gladstone.

Duffin and Lystar will again handle the boxers and in preparation are going to try to prove their point about clubs working together. They intend to have all the Silver Gloves entrants working out at St. Louis College at least four nights a week from now until the big event.

VIRTUE FAILS TO PAY

Bruno Turns Hero But Loses Bout To Marvel

By BILL HOLLAND

Question: When is a villain not a villain? Answer: When he wrestles the Mask Marvel.

That was the situation that notorious badman Con Bruno found himself in Monday night wrestling at the Victoria Ballroom when he took on the hooded "heavy" in the main event of the four-bout card. Bruno kept on the right side of the fence throughout the evening, using his fists only when in a complex situation.

The Marvel, however, was just the opposite to the villain-turned-hero, pulling hair, using his fists and the ropes whenever he could, and generally making a nuisance of himself.

Bruno apparently refused to be swayed by these subversive tactics, and "poured on the coal" in the first few minutes of the bout to take the first fall.

The second round did not come so easy for the five-by-five hero. The Masked Marvel was eager for revenge and bit by bit began whittling Bruno down to his level.

He finally nabbed the people's choice when Bruno tried to throw the villain to the canvas but lost the hold, and was dropped instead. The impact of the fall, added to the weight of the Masked Marvel falling on his chest, stunned Bruno to the extent that he was unable to return for the third round.

In the semi-main event, Victoria's native son, Chief Thunderbird drew a referee's decision over villainous Gene Blackley.

Blackley proclaimed himself villain in the opening minutes of the bout by pulling the Chief's recently acquired Mohawk-style cut to shreds. The Saanich Indian lost the first fall to the wily bandit from Buffalo Gap when he was punched unexpectedly in the stomach.

CHIEF VICTORIOUS

In their second round, the Chief went on the warpath and made short work of pinning Blackley to the canvas for the count of three.

Blackley, enraged over the Chief's good fortune, proceeded to choke the life out of the local hero, but was stopped in short order by the referee. Blackley was disqualified, and the Chief named victor.

BASEBALL BRIEFS

TUCSON, Ariz., March 11 (AP).—Jim Fridley was just another name on the Cleveland roster when spring training began but today the husky 26-year-old rookie outfielder is a prime candidate for the regular right field berth.

Fridley, up from Dallas of the Texas League, is blasting away at a merry .583 clip and almost half of his blows have been for extra bases. He has banged seven hits, including two triples and a double in 12 times at bat against the New York Giants in three days.

* * *

MIAMI, March 11 (AP).—Manager Chuck Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers will give rookie righthander Joe Black a chance to redeem himself Thursday night against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Black looked bad in one-inning stint against Boston Saturday but Dressen wants another look.

"If he can go nine, we'll let him," Dressen said today.

* * *

Mize, who figures to be used primarily as a pinch-hitter this year, socked a two-run double Monday as the Yanks downed the Boston Red Sox, 7-4, at St. Petersburg.

* * *

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 11 (AP).—Once again the big question in the Philadelphia Phillies training camp is can Jim Konstanty come back?

The right-handed relief artist has appeared in the first Phillie exhibition games allowing three hits in 5½ innings on the mound.

Konstanty, the National League's most valuable player in 1950 when Philadelphia won the pennant, slumped to a 4-11 record last year.

Monday the one hit off Konstanty in a 1½ innings was a three-run double by Joe Adcock as the Cincinnati Reds staged a six-run up-rising to down the Phillies 10-4.

Moore Keeps Pace With Wing Ace

MONTREAL, March 11 (BUP)—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings was still riding herd on National Hockey League scorers today, but the point-producing antics of Montreal's Dickie Moore, a rookie who isn't even in the top 10, were stealing some of his thunder.

Official statistics from league headquarters revealed that the husky young right winger who makes goalies miserable by shooting from either side—right or left—could probably sit out the rest of the schedule and still win his second straight scoring crown. He had compiled 41 goals and 34 assists for 75 points, 14 more than veteran Elmer Lach of the Montreal Canadiens.

But Moore, who didn't come into the league until after Christmas, was trading point for point with the Red Wings' big gun. From Jan. 23 to March 5 he scored at least one point in 16 straight games. A bad knee kept him out of three, and it took that same ailment to slow him to a walk and cut off his string March 8 as the Canadiens tied Chicago 4-4.

HOT STREAK

During that streak, the 21-year-old right-winger scored 16 goals including two hat-tricks. He is the only player to score three goals a game on two occasions this season.

The husky rookie's 32 points in 31 games since Christmas was second only to the high-flying Howe, and left him 30th in the over-all point standings, tied with such veterans as Edgar LaPrade of the New York Rangers and Jim McFadden of the Chicago Black Hawks, who had played a full schedule.

Third in the official scoring statistics was Ted Lindsay of Detroit with 56 points, five less than Lach. Lindsay, however, was threatening Gus Kyle's leadership in the penalty parade. The burly Boston Bruin backstop had 123 minutes. Lindsay had 115 and was moving in fast.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit remained an easy leader in the goaltending department. His goals-against record of 121 in 64 games for a 1.89 average, plus 11 shutouts, left him well ahead of Toronto's Al Rollins in the race for the Venzina Trophy.

Trail, Kelowna Head For Finals

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP)—Unless they can regain some scoring punch—and fast—Nanaimo Clippers and Nelson Maple Leafs won't be running for the British Columbia senior hockey title after the middle of this week.

Based on what happened Monday night, Kelowna Packers and Trail Smoke Eaters appear to be headed for the championship series which will open March 15.

The signposts were Packers' 7-1 win over Clippers and Smoke Eaters' 9-1 triumph over Maple Leafs. Kelowna and Trail now lead their best-of-five B.C. semi-finals two games to one.

Nanaimo and Nelson will be out unless they win the fourth games Wednesday night, Kelowna and Nanaimo at Vernon and Trail at Nelson.

Big Jim Middleton led Kelowna Monday night with three goals and an assist. Linemate Stu Robertson got a goal and two assists and playing-coach Phil Hergesheimer also earned three points with two goals and a helper.

GOAL SPLURGE

Trail's 9-1 win over Nelson was the second one-sided score of the series between the two Western International League teams. After winning the opener 4-3, Trail was pounded 9-3 in the second game of the semi, which will also decide the Kootenay senior champion.

Bob Wiest paced Trail with four goals in the third game. Others went to Bill Ramsden, Terry Cavanagh, Bob Kromm, Johnny Rypien and Mike Shabaga. Bill Haldane got the lone Nelson tally. Trail splurged for five goals in the second.

First Period—1, Kelowna, Middleton (Robertson) 13.28. Penalties—Brown, Carr, Kaiser, Hanson, Durban.

Second Period—2, Kelowna, Penner 2.55; 3, Kelowna, Hergesheimer (Durban) 5.21. Penalties—Shamlock, Lundmark, Pennell, McMeekin, Penner.

"It's time Pop knew some of the facts of life!"

Funny thing about parents. They can be so smart about some things—and blind to other things.

Take my Pop, for instance. When I first bowed into this confusing world, he was wise enough to take out more life insurance. Now, if anything happens to him, Mom will still have money for groceries and rent. And I can go on playing here, instead of at some nursery while Mother earns a living.

For that, I give Pop full credit. Yet he's always complaining about how tough it is to save more money these days. Why can't he see that he can use life insurance—with its system for putting money aside regularly—to reach other goals. That way, saving's as easy as sucking a toe!

Another thing. As I observe economic conditions in this great nation of ours, one fact is increasingly evident! Every dollar that's saved helps to check inflation. So we should all save as much as we can, every way we can.

That's what I'm going to tell Pop. And if he doesn't listen to reason, I'll just drool all over his new tie!

Life insurance dollars serve you these other ways:

A large part of every life insurance dollar is put to work in investments that bring you—and all other Canadians—extra benefits.

Hundreds of millions of these dollars have been used in this way, helping to provide new schools, highways, power plants, oil pipelines, homes and many other vital projects that raise living standards.

Today, by their thrifty habit of paying life insurance premiums regularly, nearly five million Canadians are providing security for their families . . . working to check inflation . . . and promoting progress throughout the nation!

Distinction Charged In Bookies' Hearing

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP)—Defense counsel Angelo Branca charged Monday the bookmaking-conspiracy trial is "not being administered as it should be."

"We like to think in this country that justice is administered fairly and without distinction," the lawyer told the jury.

Last of eight defense lawyers to make his address, Mr. Branca reviewed evidence presented against his six clients by the Crown for nearly two hours.

He wanted to know why 26 were charged as alleged king-pin bookmakers while 281 persons named in the indictment as alleged co-conspirators were not.

"Only the names of 39 co-conspirators have been named in evidence in the 18 days of the trial," he protested. "The names of the others have not even been mentioned. I consider this a disgraceful thing."

At this juncture prosecutor Gordon Scott objected that names of 200 co-conspirators were mentioned in the list of bookmaking admissions made by the defense.

Mr. Branca also wanted to know why A. E. (Ab) Forshaw, a self-admitted bookmaker who quit in 1947 to devote his time to raising horses, wasn't on trial with the accused 26.

The Swiss Discovery for

Skin Troubles

F "99"

The discovery, made by clinical research in many Countries, established that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in the body metabolism can be one of the main causes of skin diseases. This has already brought new hope and happiness to thousands of people suffering from Eczema, Boils, Leg Ulcers, Infantile Eczema, Acne and in some cases of Psoriasis.

Ten Years Research

Ten years of untiring efforts by a Swiss Chemist resulted in extracting from pure vegetable oils, a concentration of highly purified and biologically active essential fatty acids. These highly unsaturated fatty acids are now contained in the F "99" preparations. F "99" taken internally, is readily digested by the stomach and absorbed into the blood stream, and has a decisive influence in the treatment of skin diseases.

Eczema - Leg Ulcers
Boils - Infantile Eczema...

As its name suggests, the F "99" Two-Way Treatment acts both internally (Capsules or Liquid) and externally (Ointment). While F "99" Ointment treats the external visible symptoms of the ailment, F "99" Capsules give the body power to help suppress the cause and to combat Eczema, Boils, Leg Ulcers, Infantile Eczema and Acne. Even in Psoriasis, some good results have been reported but it is not possible to pre-determine which cases do not respond to this treatment. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F "99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value. It is being used with remarkable results even in cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

HOW TO USE F "99" TWO-WAY TREATMENT

Eczema	F "99" Capsules and Ointment
Children's Eczema	F "99" Liquid and Ointment
Boils	F "99" Capsules and Ointment
Leg Ulcers	F "99" Capsules and Ointment

Foreign Pacts Need Sanction

St. Laurent Assures Commons That Foreign Undertakings Are Out Unless Win Approval

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent assured the Commons Monday that no foreign undertaking by Canada will constitute a commitment until Parliament has approved it.

But, at the same time, he reminded the chamber that the framing of foreign policy is the business of the cabinet, not of Parliament, and that Parliament always can oust the government if it does not agree.

The Prime Minister's statement was the outgrowth of a clash with George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, over a foreign-policy speech in New York Friday last by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Pearson, now in Washington, was not present to reply to Drew's protest that he had made four important declarations on policy concerning the Far East in his New York speech without first consulting Parliament.

The clash between the two leaders took some of the shine off the Throne Speech debate as it moved into its second week.

In the opening phases, Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, reported that no evidence of foot-and-mouth virus has been found on Willi Bruentjen, the German immigrant who has been examined as a possible carrier of the livestock disease.

PLAN DEVISED

St. Laurent said a plan has been devised to advance payments to Canadians with war claims resulting from death or personal injury. Forms have been sent to those involved.

The chamber gave first reading to a bill providing for a redistribution of parliamentary representations on the basis of shifts in population during the last 10 years.

In the Throne Speech debate itself, David Cross (L.-Toronto Spadina) urged the government to make full use of the advantage to populate Canada on a large scale and to aim at a population of 25,000,000 in 20 years.

He asked the government to stand by its present "excellent" immigration program — which has brought more than 500,000 persons to Canada since the end of the war—and not to give in to those who seek a reduction in the flow of immigrants. Immigrants brought new wealth, new industries and new jobs to this country.

J. M. Macdonnell (P.C.-Toronto Greenwood), financial critic for the official opposition, criticized the government's taxation policies and urged it to make every effort to recover lost markets in the United Kingdom. The government's tax policies had increased trade difficulties.

Body Structure Seen As Basis For Good Art

A thorough knowledge of anatomy has given artists the ability to convey expressions of mood and action beyond simple outward appearances, a student of both pursuits told a University Extension Association audience Monday night at Victoria College.

Dr. Sidney M. Friedman, head of the anatomy department at the U.B.C. medical school, described with illustrations the growing awareness of artists of the structure of the human body, and its full realization in the Renaissance.

"At that time the two studies converged, since many anatomists were artists, and vice versa," Dr. Friedman said. They have since separated, but a mutual interest continues."

Early Greek sculptors, he said, understood anatomy from outward appearances, but placed it secondary to classical concepts.

"In the 'Discus Thrower' and 'Laocoon' there is fluidity of motion and stress, and believable figures in spite of mistakes in muscle form," he said.

From then until the Renaissance the main advances were in decorative art, stressing design and unity, but the individual gradually assumed importance, he said.

With Masaccio, he said, the artist was again showing concern with anatomy.

"His figures in the 'Expulsion of Adam and Eve' are bad," Dr. Friedman said, "yet his art is sufficient to transcend the failing."

Cattle Plague Is Topic For Two Legislatures

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Alberta legislature approved a resolution asking the federal government to take immediate steps to remove the embargos placed by five provinces on dressed meats. The motion was sponsored by Agriculture Minister D. A. Ure.

Ure urged the lifting of the embargos on importation into and the transportation through these provinces of dressed carcasses which have passed inspection by Canadian government officials at Alberta slaughtering plants.

The five provinces are: British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

NOVA SCOTIA

Agriculture Minister A. W. MacKenzie told the Nova Scotia legislature that the danger of foot-and-mouth disease being taken to Nova Scotia is "very remote." He said the horses, which arrived in Kentville, Friday, came from Alberta with no stopover for feeding in Saskatchewan. They left before the province's three-week ban on such imports went into effect.

ALBERTA

In the Alberta House, Liberal Leader J. Harper Prowse said the Alberta government's treatment of municipalities is "niggardly" and urged appointment of an unbiased royal commission to study provincial-municipal relations.

Prowse, first opposition speaker in the budget debate, also said the Social Credit government should drop its "rich uncle—poor nephew" attitude to municipalities.

ONTARIO

The controversial Hope Report on education brought a brief clash between Premier Leslie Frost and J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Ontario St. Andrew.

Salsberg, arguing that the House should study and debate the report before acting on "piecemeal" government bills on education, charged the government had "buried" the report and had a "conspiracy of silence against it."

Frost said the government was not trying to evade discussion on the report and that Salsberg had had several opportunities to speak on it.

The government, he said, had not changed its policy from last spring when he told the legislature that education conditions were satisfactory and the government was not bound by the recommendations of any commission.

City's May 24 Fete May Be On

Decision To Cancel Annual Show Reconsidered; Mayhew View Sought

Victoria's annual May 24 celebrations may be held after all.

The situation at the moment is "liquid" as the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association waits for a telegram from Fisheries Minister R. W. Mayhew.

Frank Hunter, chairman of the association, wired Mayhew for a ruling as the association wondered if it had been right in its decision to cancel the event, owing to the period of mourning for the King's death.

The association hopes to have a reply for a meeting it is holding at 8 tonight.

Owing to the period of mourning it felt the armed forces, always a big feature of the celebrations, might not be able to participate. Should Mayhew's reply indicate it would be all right to proceed, Hunter said everything was in gear for May 24.

If the "green light" is given the celebrations may not be staged on May 24, though.

Hunter, who is city clerk as well as chairman of the celebrations committee, today received a copy of a bill from Ottawa which, if passed, would have both the May 24 and July 1 holidays observed on the closest Monday following May 23 and June 30.

"I take it the bill has received first reading," Hunter said.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Arthur Ash (Govt., Saanich), second speaker of the afternoon in the budget debate, distributed red, white and pink carnations to all members.

Ash, who said he was "saying it with flowers," told the House the carnations were grown in that "garden of Eden—Saanich."

Seamen Argue Boost Of $50

Officials of Seafarers' International Union (A.F.L.) went into a second meeting in Vancouver today with three B.C. coastal steamship companies, over demands for boosts in basic pay and overtime rates.

Bargaining with the Canadian Pacific, Canadian National and Union Steamship companies began last week with the union demanding $50 a month basic pay increase across the board, plus boosts up to $1.50 per hour for overtime.

Represented by the S.I.U. are 800 unlicensed seamen, whose lowest basic wage would jump from $145 to $195 a month if the union's demands were met.

Officers, Men Of Cruiser Quebec Say Farewells To Craftsmen Who Rebuilt Fighting Ship Here

$1,250,000 Spent On Refit In Readiness For Training Program Out Of Halifax

H.M.C.S. Quebec slipped out through Juan de Fuca Strait today, a familiar sight as she cleared Race Rocks with a bone in her teeth.

But this time, it was different. Unlike the dozens of occasions on which she has worked her way out of harbor, this time she won't be coming back.

She slipped her lines at 1.30, acknowledged the flutter of bunting and chatter of pipes from ohter ships in port, and laid her course for the first leg of her long trip to her new base—Halifax.

Although she'll work in Atlantic waters as a training ship, to thousands of workers at H.M.C. Dockyard she'll always be a "bit of Victoria." She experienced a complete "re-birth" here, from the moth-balled Uganda to the spanking new, right and tight ship Quebec.

More than $1,250,000 and countless hours of labor went into her complete refit, and her commanding officer, Capt. P. D. Budge, now has a proud and efficient ship beneath his feet.

Quebec had been in reserve since 1947, and was recommissioned and rechristened at Esquimalt on Jan. 14.

She will reach Magdalena Bay, Mexico, March 16, and will carry out working up exercises until March 24. During this "wupping" period her crew will be shaken down with exercises in gunnery, torpedoes, asdic, radar and night maneuvres to make them proficient in serving their ship.

Quebec will then proceed through the Panama and up the Atlantic coast, reaching her new base April 18.

APRIL DATES SET FOR B.C. LIBERAL PARLEY

B.C. Liberal Association's pre-election convention will be held April 23-24, and if necessary April 25, in Vancouver, Mrs. J. L. Gates, acting president of the association, announced today.

An estimated 800 delegates out of a qualified 823 are expected to attend.

The resolutions committee will meet two days prior to the convention to consider resolutions from throughout the province.

One day before the convention the constitution committee will meet to consider amendments to the constitution.

The Liberal party in B.C. has always held a convention prior to elections to give the rank and file an opportunity to contribute to formation of a Liberal platform, Mrs. Gates stated.

CITY PROSECUTOR FINED AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO, March 11.—City Prosecutor James J. Proudfoot of Victoria was fined $200 Monday for driving his car while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

Earlier he pleaded guilty to the charge laid under a new amendment to the criminal code.

He was arrested Saturday afternoon during a rush-hour traffic period on Victoria Cresent in downtown Nanaimo, and released on $300 bail.

Plea of guilty was entered by counsel, C. Murray Reynolds. No evidence, or statements on Proudfoot's behalf, were submitted.

Proudfoot, during prosecutions in the Victoria court, has urged stiffer penalties under the new amendment to the criminal code.

Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts said the usual fine in Nanaimo for impaired driving was $150, but in view of the fact the Victoria prosecutor had been calling for stiffer penalties in his court, he would levy the $200 fine usually imposed in the Victoria court.

It is understood that after the court hearing Proudfoot thanked R.C.M.P. for doing their duty and not "playing favorites."

Murdoch Campaigns For End Or Review Of City Poll Tax

Ald. Brent Murdoch wants city council's executive committee to study abolition or revision of the poll tax.

As it now applies he states it is "discriminatory and a nuisance tax."

A thorough study should be given the tax, he said, "in fairness to those who are forced to pay it."

Alone Three Days, Nights While Mother Lay Dead

By ROY THORSEN

A three-year-old boy, wet, cold and hungry, stayed three days and nights with a mother he thought was sleeping in their Sidney home. She was dead.

This is the tragic story told today by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers who investigated the death of the young mother Sunday night.

The little fellow did not complain. He had not even cried loudly enough to be heard by neighbors in all the time he was alone with the mother he could not waken.

Suffering from a severe cold, the child is now being cared for by a neighbor.

The 23-year-old mother was lying on a couch. It is the belief of police that death was due to an overdose of sleeping pills.

However, before taking the fatal dose, the mother laid out a quantity of food in the kitchen where her child could reach it.

The presumption is the mother hoped the food would last until someone investigated to find out why there was no sign of life in the four-room house.

EVERYTHING EATEN

"The poor little tike had eaten everything he could find," officers reported. He had gone through two quarts of milk, some meat, bread, cornflakes and other cereals.

A woman neighbor, suspecting that something was wrong, called police to check the house Sunday. Death is believed to have occurred two days "or more" before the police arrival.

NO INQUEST

After reviewing the case with police, Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, has reported that no inquest will be held.

A note was left by the mother. Police said reports were she had threatened suicide before.

According to police information there had been considerable family strife which had led to frequent separations. The husband was not living at the house at the time.

WATER RUNOFF

Providing normal temperatures and precipitation prevails, below normal runoff is expected in the lower coastal areas, West Okanagan, Similkameen and Skagit areas.

The provincial water rights branch in its monthly snow survey bulletin, said actual forecasts of runoff will be published next month.

MARGARINE'S COLOR AWAITS ROYAL ASSENT

British Columbians may not be able to buy colored margarine until the present sitting of the Legislature ends.

Although third reading to the bill allowing coloring was expected today or Wednesday, the bill doesn't become law until given Royal assent by Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace. This usually is done on the last day of the session when the lieutenant-governor prorogues the House.

The session isn't expected to end for at least another two weeks. Unless special arrangements are made to bring the lieutenant-governor to the Legislature ahead of schedule, persons waiting colored margarine will have to wait out the legislators.

Collections For Red Cross Pass $14,700

The Victoria City and district branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, pushed past the one-fifth mark in its current campaign today with an audited collection of $14,784 since the drive began. The minimum objective is $68,500.

Headquarters officials expressed belief the canvass in business and industrial sections would pick up as the full force of provincial and national campaign publicity, supporting the opening of the wider campaigns Monday, made itself felt.

Reports circulating here that canvassers were being paid for collecting were spiked quickly by the drive's co-chairman, Ernest Heybroek. All canvassers for the Red Cross are volunteers, he said.

Federal Share In Cost Of B.C. Education Urged

The federal government should pay a share of provincial education costs, L. H. Eyres (P.C., Chilliwack), told the municipal affairs committee of the Legislature today.

"It's not only provincial and municipal bodies that should pay," he told the committee, gathered to consider the W. E. Hobbs report on education, and subsequent resolutions of the Union of B.C. Municipalities based upon it.

"A person educated in this province can give the benefits of that education to any other place in Canada," Eyres said. "That is why I think Ottawa should pay 20 per cent of the cost. Then let the province pay 60 per cent and the municipalities 20 per cent."

Chief object of the U.B.C.M. is to have the total costs of education divided on a fixed percentage basis of 80-20, as in the case of other locally administered social services, with the province paying the larger share.

Chairman Maurice Finnerty (Govt., Similkameen) said the committee had no intention of dealing with the U.B.C.M. report at this session.

B. C. Bracewell, deputy minister of municipal affairs, suggested a coming need will be a permanent committee from the U.B.C.M., school trustees, social welfare agencies and government departments affected, with power to order education research.

"Even the Hobbs report says no formula will deal with every condition," Bracewell said.

MORE ABOUT EDITORIAL

Winch spoke to it, saying the editorial contained a personal assault against himself. He said a halt must be called to "this type of character assassination" and disrespect of Parliament.

George Pearson (Govt., Nanaimo), rose to say he had been subjected to similar treatment from the press through the years, but he found the safe thing to do is to "take it." The procedure suggested in the motion was "unwise," he added, because the mere putting of the motion had served the purpose.

Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith then adjourned the debate to the night sitting.

DEMOCRACY'S BULWARK

At night, Straith said he had "misgivings" about the editorial, but that men in public life had to take such criticism from persons who have that right.

"We must preserve that bulwark of democracy—the freedom of the press," he said.

He recalled that 12 months ago the government had to take "bitter, caustic criticism."

"Somewhat reluctantly, I disagree with the resolution," he said.

Labor Minister John Cates urged the House to consider carefully the motion because it was dangerous. He said the only places in the world where public men aren't criticized is in countries where people are slaves.

DISAPPROVAL MOTION

H. J. Welch (Gov't., Comox), then introduced the amendment which called for the House to record its disapproval of the editorial, but not call on the Times publisher to apologize. R. C. Steel (Gov't., Omineca), seconded the amendment.

E. E. Winch (C.C.F., Burnaby), said he was surprised Premier Johnson hadn't insisted on disciplinary action because the criticism was against a hand-picked committee of the House.

"Unless some action is taken, it means any other irresponsible editorial writer can do the same. We must protest now," he said.

The editorial was "vicious, unfair but legal," J. J. Gould (Gov't., Vancouver-Burrard), a lawyer, told the House. "The paper need not be proud of it."

He pointed out, however, that if any member of the inquiry board feels a slur has been cast on him, a libel action could be taken against the paper. But, he said, anyone in public life loses the privacy of his affairs.

Gould said it would be "preposterous" to bring Publisher Keate before the Bar of the House.

AGAINST PRINCIPLES

Don Brown (P.C., Vancouver-Burrard), termed the editorial a "disgraceful and scandalous reflection on the members." But, he said, he couldn't vote for the motion because it would be against the principle of the freedom of the press. He suggested the Times show good upbringing and openly apologize for the "misleading" editorial.

Old issue of the Times—as far back as 1902—were produced by Maurice Finnerty (Gov't., Similkameen), to show that editorial writers in those days wrote some blunt pieces. He said those complaining may be being a "little super-sensitive."

"None of these old editorials occasioned such drastic action as contemplated here tonight," he said. "In the long run, no great harm is done."

Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Ind., Vancouver-Point Grey), though the Times had done itself harm.

SUPPORTS AMENDMENT

Smith then rose to say he would support the amendment. Procedural rules would have prevented him from withdrawing his motion, Winch said.

Premier Johnson said he felt "very keenly" for the committee, but thought both the motion and the amendment were dangerous because the freedom of the press must be considered.

Before the vote was taken, Madame Speaker Nancy Hodges vacated the chair because she is a Times' columnist. If there was a tie vote, she pointed out, the speaker would have to vote. Charles Morrow, deputy speaker, took over.

After the amendment was defeated, Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb got his licks in. He said he couldn't understand the "asinine stupidity" of some newspapers.

DIGGING OWN GRAVE

"Day after day they attack men in public office . . . They themselves will crucify the freedom they now enjoy. It will be brought about by misuse of the freedom of the press. They attack men doing a public service which they (editorial writers) couldn't do. I'll vote for freedom of the press, but it will be taken away unless they catch on to themselves. They are digging their own grave," said Anscomb.

A. W. Lundell (P.C., Revelstoke), a newspaper man and a member of the inquiry board, said he resented the suggestion in the editorial, "but I must vote for the freedom of the press."

The last time any newspaper officials were called before the Bar of the House was in 1892. James and Robert Kennedy of the New Westminster Columbian were called but didn't appear. Later, they were arrested by the Legislature's sergeant-at-arms. They contested the authority of the House and were remanded in the custody of the sergeant-at-arms. In the meantime, the House prorogued and the jurisdiction was removed. The brothers were freed.

Fishermen Get No Promises From Cabinet

B.C. Cabinet gave a delegation of fishermen a sympathetic hearing today on their request to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, but no assurance that anything would be done.

The 18-man delegation, spearhead of men who manned a flotilla of 50 boats which converged on the capital over the week-end, wants the act amended to cover all fishermen at time of injury.

Under certain conditions, 3,000 are covered now on salmon and herring seining and rented gillnet boats. The delegation wants all fishermen covered by the act.

They asked that a second reading of the bill now before the House be held over until they can argue before party caucuses. An alternative was to "call off the whips" and not make the vote a matter of party discipline.

"Some of the government back benchers favor our proposals, but do not want to cause trouble," a spokesman said.

William Rigby, of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, said his group would like the fishing company representatives to attend any caucus held.

Coroner's jury found that Horace Vale Young, 79, was accidently drowned.

P.U.C. 'Is Not On Trial'

Request that engineers and accountants of the Public Utilities Commission be called for cross-examination, was refused at Monday's public hearing of the B.C. Electric Co.'s application for a transit increase.

"The commission is not on trial," said Percy George, chairman.

Terence P. O'Grady, assistant city solicitor, said the evidence in question which would "weigh so heavily on the commissioners' minds" should be examined. Otherwise he said the hearing "was only half a public hearing or less."

A. B. Robertson, representing the B.C. Electric Co., said it was the usual practise in other provincial and state commissions on the continent to put staff members on the stand only when the commission had sought a reduction in fares or rates.

Speaking for the Victoria Cost of Living Committee, Mrs. M. Ralston said the increase would be a hardship on low income groups and pensioners.

Robertson contended that while the company fully sympathized with those people the commission could not "tailor rates to the ability of one section of the community to pay."

DETAILS SOUGHT

A plea that the P.U.C. staff forward its findings on the company's operations to municipal councils so they would be in a position to adjudicate any requests for an increase was made by Councillor Roy Wootten of Saanich.

The chairman said that the company had forwarded replies to any questions councillors had asked regarding its application.

Later Robertson said it was not up to councillors to adjudicate . . . "it is the duty of the commission alone."

When reference was made to the fact that no company application had ever been thrown out by the P.U.C., Robertson stated the reason "is painfully obvious."

"We've never got anywhere near our allowable rate return. Each time we have made a sound case for an increase."

City Argues Fare Boost Delay On Technicality

Public Utilities Commission can hand down no decision on the B.C. Electric Co. application for increased bus fares until it has settled the question of "fair return."

That was the stand of Terence P. O'Grady, assistant city solicitor, at the close of the one-day public hearing on the transit increase application in the Empress Hotel Monday afternoon.

Percy E. George, P.U.C. chairman, said today he hoped to meet with his colleagues and contact the commission's staff of accountants and engineers, who are examining the company's figures at Vancouver.

"I cannot say when the decision will be handed down, until I get word from Vancouver and we have had an opportunity to evaluate findings," he said, referring to the transit fare application.

At Monday's hearing O'Grady contended the company had an application before the P.U.C. for an increase in the fair rate return allowed on the over-all utility operation from a fixed 5.8 to 7.5 per cent.

WOULD FIX RATE

He said any increase in transit fares would fix a new allowed rate of return to the company on all operations, although the application was still to be decided by the P.U.C.

The company's earnings on the depreciated rate base covering all operations had increased from 4.12 in 1949 to 4.32 in 1950, and to 4.53 in 1951, O'Grady said. He added that the company stated even if granted the transit increase asked, they would still show a transit deficit of $267,110 in 1952.

"They must ask what they need to give a fair return," he said.

Replying for the company A. B. Robertson said if the city was dissatisfied with previous P.U.C. decisions, it could have appealed.

COMPANY ARGUMENT

"If he thinks the rate is unfair because it is not reasonable compensation to the company, he will advise Victoria city council to apply for increased transit rates, said Robertson.

Interjected O'Grady: "We don't object to a 4.32 return to the company. It is quite fair."

"It is a pitiful return on the almost $20,000,000 invested here," Robertson said of the 2.79 per cent made on all services on Vancouver Island in 1951.

All services on the mainland produced 4.75 per cent last year, he stated.

Robertson said it was essential for the company to have the increase in order to give service to the public.

He referred also to the $132,000,000 required for service expansion.

Dr. H. L. Purdy, B.C.E. research and administrative director, told the hearing 11 fares in 1939 would pay an operator's wages for one hour. In 1951 it required 18 fares, he said.

"As distasteful as transit increases are, the consumer has not been asked to bear as large an increase as he has on other commodities," Purdy said.

Ship Loading Floor Lumber For Australia

An unusual cargo is being loaded in Ss. Sedgepool, British freighter, today at Ogden Point.

She is taking lumber for Australia—but not in the customary large sizes, which are sawn, planed and finished when they arrive "down under."

Nearly all of the 900,000 feet of fir and hemlock she is taking is in finished flooring, tongue and grooved, ready to be cut to size and laid.

The flooring, in three sizes, is being shipped by B.C. Forest Products and East Asiatic Co., B.C., Ltd. Sedgepool also has a deckload of heavy timbers, loaded in the United States, and will go to New Westminster for finishing.

Sedgepool made the news here in 1937 when she ran aground at the north end of Provost Island, about 40 miles from Victoria, on her way to sea with a full load of wheat and lumber. She had to limp back into port for $75,000 worth of repairs.

A frequent visitor to Victoria, she is a 7,238-ton Liberty type, currently showing the rusty ravages of many days at sea. Her master is Capt. R. W. Thomson, and King Bros. Ltd. are agents.

By PENNY SAVER

Hear ye! Hear ye! Hear ye!

We have a treat in store for you! Wednesday, that's tomorrow, we are going to slip an extra supplement in the paper for you that should thrill you to bits.

It's going to be a cook book supplement!

Wow! The suggestions and recipes in it makes it worth it's weight in gold. In fact, you'll probably plan on using some of the recipes at your next meal.

As you go through this supplement you will discover recipes that stress economy, recipes that are different and tips to wise buying.

And something different—a dual-style dress. The idea of it is that you can put it on for cooking and still be presentable to hop out and do your shopping.

Another thing that will meet your fancy are the cake recipes which tend to cut down on eggs.

Now with all these delicious and tempting suggestions you'll need enough baking utensils to cope with your enthusiasm to try them out.

First you'll need bowls for mixing. Why not try the blue pyrex? It comes in four sizes at $2.95 for the set. A matching pint pitcher is 35 pennies.

Then come the baking tins.

I jotted down prices of all the various sizes in one popular line. A seven-inch square is 25 pennies; loaf tin, 5x9 inches, is 35 cents; bread tin, 4x8½ inches and 3½ inches deep, 45 cents; another tin, 5½ and 9½ inches, was 35 cents.

Tins Of Every Size And Shape.

Sets of three cake tins, the kind with the bottom that comes out, are $1.19. The largest is 8½ inches square, the next, 6½ inches, and the smallest is 5½ inches square.

A set of three round cake tins, the same sizes, are 79 pennies.

If you are thinking of baking an angel food cake, the tin for it is the one with the funnel up the centre. It is 39 pennies.

A 16x11-inch cookie sheet is 49 pennies and another, 14x10 inches is 45 cents. Tart pans with 16 cups are 79 cents; with eight cups, 55 cents.

Let's see, what else do we need? How about an oven thermometer. They're $1.75.

Other odd and ends I noticed were a plastic cake and pie cutter for a quarter; plastic measuring cup, 19 cents; sifter, 45 cents; sturdy beaters, $2.18; and tin measuring spoons, 29 cents.

No doubt you have these things in your kitchen already, but they don't last forever and now is a good a time as any to replace them.

Don't forget now! When you hear that thud on your front porch tomorrow, go out and fetch your paper and look at the cook book supplement.

SPEEDY DIVORCE IN S.A.

JOHANNESBURG (CP).—Divorce proceedings may be started in South Africa even faster than in Reno, Nevada, where there's a six weeks' residence qualification.

One Johannesburg lawyer explained "a man need be only two days in any city in South Africa and, providing he intends to make his domicile permanent, he can immediately begin divorce proceedings."

Where a woman sues for divorce here, there is no provision for alimony but it may be introduced by legislation now being considered in parliament. Introduction of alimony would probably tend to increase the divorce rate since many dissatisfied women now are probably shunning divorce because of the need for financial security.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

He's Still A Bachelor; Anyone Find Out Why?

An exceptional bachelor says he would not care for a gorgeous blond.

For two days now I have been regaling you with the results of the question I asked my readers about what kind of women men like and what kind of men women like. I cannot sign off until I quote some from "Pete the Bachelor." When you read this you will know why he is a bachelor.

Pete likes them natural so far as looks is concerned. He does not want them to dye their hair or paint their nails. He also says, "I like curves, even large hips if they are not too large." He thinks the Hollywood stars look starved and neurotic. That's a break for the rest of you girls anyway.

He wrote, "I don't want a woman to be able to do all the things I can do. I only want her to be interested in them and wish she could do them, but not try.

"I wouldn't want a gorgeous blonde. They are too self-centred and conceited and think too much of themselves. I want a woman to think of me.

"I don't care for a woman who has too much brains. Life is too short and they can't know everything and do everything. Let them learn about rearing a family, keeping the family in good health and cooking good food. If all the responsibility of making a living is left to a man, that makes him feel like a man and that's the important thing.

"A woman should forget herself and concentrate on admiring her man. If he didn't like her he would not have asked her for a date, or married her. She should go heavy on her admiration for the man. Even if he is not so wonderful (why Pete, do you admit that possibility?) maybe if she admires him long enough she may succeed in bringing out characteristics which are attractive. Women who are sweet and kind and gentle bring out a man's best qualities.

"I can't write longer. I have a date with a nice gray-haired widow and don't want to be late or I might have to do some explaining. She is a little bossy but I can't find any other kind."

I do think our bachelor may be a little self-centred but he wrote more frankly than most men would and there is a lot of truth in what he says.

The history of the evolution of the foundation garment and its place in present-day fashions was presented to members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club Monday evening in two color films.

The films, shown all across Canada to women's and college girls' groups, were presented through the courtesy of Mrs. Irene Carroll, a club member. Miss Frances Paterson expressed thanks of the club for the presentation.

Miss Mary Cliff, finance chairman, announced that Mrs. Thomas Balmer will come from Seattle at the end of the month to give a lecture on flower arrangements, under auspices of the club.

Mrs. Balmer was in charge of floral arrangements at "Eaglecrest" last autumn when Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip spent a short holiday there.

She will speak in the Business and Professional Women's clubroom, 902 Government Street, at 2.30 on Saturday, March 29. Tickets, limited to 200, may be obtained from members of the club and at Minnie Beveridge Millinery.

Brothers And Sisters Together Here

Mrs. Cliff Kirby, Creelman, Alta., and Miss Edna Mooney, Regina, seated; Mrs. Morgan Jones, Regina; Mr. Jack Mooney, Victoria; Mrs. J. W. Kealey, Lumsden, Sask., and Mr. Millard Mooney, Victoria, standing. At the right, the same group is pictured in the same order, when they were small children in Regina. They found the picture in the family snapshot album as they talked of their childhood days together.

A family gathering is taking place in Victoria at present with Mr. Millard Mooney and his brother, Mr. Jack Mooney, welcoming four sisters from Saskatchewan, who have come by car to spend a few weeks in Victoria.

Two of the sisters, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Kirby, live on farms not far from Regina, and they are visiting the Pacific coast for the first time.

They all decided to make the trip in a hurry.

"If we had stopped to think about it, we never would have come," Mrs. Jones tells you.

And Mrs. Kealey, whose husband trains harness horses at their home near Regina, adds: "There was a snowstorm when we left Regina, we found it 28 below on the road the next morning, snow at Spokane, sleet in the Snoqualmie Pass, rain as we neared Seattle and now we discover sunshine and flowers in Victoria."

"As you know, we don't have television in Saskatchewan, too far away from the TV centres," Mrs. Kirby says.

And they are looking forward to trying their luck at fishing. "We've never caught a fish, not one of us," they tell you in a chorus.

Miss Edna Mooney, who is a member of the staff of the Wheat Pool in Regina, takes all the credit for getting her sisters started on the trip.

"I had a month's holiday," she says, "so I just telephoned them and told them to pack their clothes."

"And that's just what we did," the others tell you, "we threw them into suitcases and started out before we got frightened about the whole thing. And we certainly are enjoying it!"

Stuck With the Paint

"I got some paint," I sensed my doom, "a soft grey, for our bedroom.". "That's nice," I replied, "say, whatt-a-you-know, these Cougars are really, on the go," "Will you put down that paper, & hear what I say, WE . . . are going to paint . . . our bedroom grey." "THIS is really, gonna be a race, lookit here . . . tied for 7th place." "I S-A-I-D," she repeated, & raised her voice, "grey, —don't you think, a happy choice??" "I'll say I'm happy, should put down the scoffs, somehow I feel, we'll make the play-offs." "THAT," she hollered, and then gave a shout, "WASN'T WHAT I, WAS TALKING ABOUT." "O.K.," I sighed, with my paper I parted, "when do you plan, to get the mess started??" "Well, it's GOT to be done, that's all I say, so what's the matter with right away??" "Nuthin', I guess," so feeling gruff, I went down in the basement to mix the stuff. YOU can mix 'em or match 'em, either way neat, when it comes to choosing . . . YOUR cheery chrome suite. An acre of chrome on the floor below, so come paint, your kitchen with a silvery glow. I spotted her paint, 4 cans she had, I gazed at the stuff, I felt very sad. "I hate you," I sed, as I talked to these cans," I KNOW you're all set, to smear up my hands. That, it seems your main design, & I detest the smell of this turpentine." She'd spread old papers on the floor, her sweetest smile, I chose to ignore. "I found that old roller," I sed with a yawn, "'twould be faster I think, to roll the stuff on." She looked at me, as if to implore, like remembering the time, I'd used it before. "Don't worry," I sed, as she fingered the plaster, "I'll slap it on, it's so much faster." "Then I'll get more papers," & so she did fling, "if you really MUST . . . use that thing??" Down on the floor she started to crawl, so I slapped on the guck, & rolled the wall. She had a big rag, this helper of mine, soaked from the bottle of turpen-tine. The harder I pressed, the more blotches I got, "what's the matter," I sed, "this thing ain't so hot?" "Great Heavens," she looked & then implored, "it's running all over . . . look . . . this floor board?" "Here," she said, "give it to me," she was right beneath, down on one knee. "There's a knack to this thing, & she gave it a roll, she made a WORSE mess, then a look at me stole. "It's as hard as a board, that's why it won't work, you left in old paint, you lazy jerk." "H-m-m-m-m-m," I mused, as I fingered the mush, "guess I'll go down, and find the brush." I went below, & then began, the battle to get the brush from the can. It was stuck, glued there tight, & it wasn't my color, but a dirty white. I whamed it hard, against a beam, I finally won, my eyes a-gleam. A tap on my shoulder, & I heard her say, "I don't think we'll do, any painting today." She toyed with my brush, a smile on her face, "what's that you were saying, 'bout tied for last place??" Then we both laughed, sort of man-to-man, as I pitched the brush . . . IN THE GARBAGE CAN.

BRIDGE LESSON — by Oswald Jacoby

Several players read the cards correctly and made three no-trump with the hand shown today when it came along in the Life Masters Pair Championship in New York. I wonder how many of my readers would play the hand in the same way.

West opened the four of hearts, and East played the jack in the hope that South would take his trick at once. South played low, however, and East continued by taking the ace of hearts and then giving declarer the king of hearts.

South could now count on winning four clubs, two diamonds, a heart, and only one spade. The spade finesse could not be risked, because East surely had all the missing high cards for his opening bid of one heart.

How does South get his ninth trick without allowing East to set the contract by taking the rest of the established hearts?

South simply takes the king and queen of clubs and enters dummy with the king of diamonds to cash the ace and jack of clubs. East must make two discards on the third and fourth clubs. What can he spare?

East can spare one spade, but not a second; and he cannot spare any diamonds. Hence East must part with one of his precious hearts.

Now it is safe for declarer to take the ace of diamonds and give East his diamond trick. East can take his remaining heart, but must then lead spades away from his king up to dummy's queen; thus giving declarer a free finesse for his ninth trick.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

With TOMMIE WALTERS

Two fine old hymns from the Episcopalian hymnbook were indirectly responsible for bringing together two of the best in radio entertainers. It all came about during a hometown choir practise in Peoria, Ill., back in 1914. The winsome blue-eyed 16-year-old pianist asked for suggestions for the following Sunday's choir selections. A young tousle-haired tenor, of 17, in a moment of frivolity, called for "Hold, Thou, My Hand." "Yes, and 'Draw Me Nearer'," came the rejoinder. For Jim Jordan and Marian Driscoll it was a case of love at first sight. Jim was a wholesale drug clerk and Marian taught piano.

But young Jordan was ambitious and anxious to cut a caper in the world. In September, 1917, his vocal teacher secured a spot for him with a vaudeville troupe out of Chicago. But the glamour of show business soon wore off and he became a man of letters with the U.S. postal department. It was war that returned Jim to show business. Marian had kept on with her piano classes. They were married in 1918 and Jim went to France to entertain the occupation forces. Jim came home and went to work, doing the occasional show with Marian. Times were tough. Their show business ventures hadn't been altogether successful. It was on a visit with Jim's brother in Chicago they found out about this thing called radio. After listening to some warbling crooner, Jim announced they could do better than that and off they went to see the manager of WIBO that same night. Before they knew what was happening they were on the air. That was in 1927, and their success has been a skyrocketing phenomenon ever since.

Today, all Hollywood is honoring "Fibber McGee and Molly" on the 25th anniversary of their debut on radio, and 20 years with NBC. The same town that fought for years to gets its own postmark, is giving up its identity for the day to become "Wistful Vista, Calif." Hollywood and Vine has been renamed "14th and Oak." Even the Hollywood Citizen-News has been renamed the "Wistful Vista Gazette," as the entire radio colony salutes Molly and "Dearie" on their 25 years of good, clean, wholesome radio fun.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beastall

With the birds arriving in flights each day and the frog chorus arising from the swamp, even the most dilatory gardener feels the urge to get started, and any device which will save him time and unnecessary labor is always welcome.

Many years ago the commercial growers were introduced to the veneer plant bands, designed to eliminate the labor and breakage attendant to growing plants in pots. While these bands have been available to home gardeners for several seasons, their convenience has not yet been appreciated.

Hilda

Veneer plant bands may be purchased from garden supply stores in a variety of sizes to suit the plants being grown. They are purchased as flat strips of thin wood already scored for bending into a hollow square. Before using, they should be soaked in water for at least twelve hours, after which they may be bent into shape without splitting, and be secured with a hand stapler or an elastic band. Placed tightly together in a standard flat or a hollow box, and filled with good garden soil, they occupy far less space than the same number of pots.

There are many of our flowering plants which resent transplanting after passing the seedling stage, because of long tap roots or fleshy roots which are not easily replaced after being damaged. The gardener is usually advised to sow seeds of these "where the plants are to flower," which means waiting until weather and soil are right. It is here that the gardener benefits from using plant bands, for seedlings may be transplanted into them now and be ready to set outside as established plants when other gardeners are just starting to sow. The bands may be either left around the plants, or removed, when planting outside.

A group of annuals which make faster growth if transplanted into bands as soon as they are large enough to handle include ten-week stock, early branching nice stock, zinnia, aster and larkspur.

Temperance Hotels' Aim

British Columbia M.L.A.'s are being urged by the provincial region of the Canadian Restaurant Association to adopt Ontario's system of liquor sales.

All members have received letters from the group which believes that temperance in the consumption of alcohol can best be helped by the serving of liquor by the glass along with food.

The restaurant men think the coming liquor plebiscite should read: "Do you favor, on the basis of local option, the sale of liquor by the glass, with meals, in hotels, restaurants and other eating establishments?"

Science progresses . . . for 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalicylic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of acidity, insolubility and bitter taste. It is called DISPRIN and is sold at druggists everywhere.
DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.
DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.
DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.
DISPRIN is now available at your druggist. Bottles of 26 tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 8.

CELESTIAL VOICES SING

Paganini Quartet Plays To Clamorous Audience

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

For the second time this season, we have been favored with a musical experience so transcendental that no words seem sufficiently winged to summarize it.

The four members of the Paganini String Quartet who played Monday, like Solomon the pianist, here earlier in the season, individually and collectively appear to confound the theory that there is nothing perfect in art.

The Paganinis, consisting of Henri Temianka, Gustave Rossells, Charles Foidart and Lucien Laporte, were presented for the second time in 18 months by the Arts Centre of Greater Victoria.

Victoria High School auditorium was packed by an audience which, far from being surfeited by three quartets in a row, clamored for more.

Movements from two unprogrammed quartets were added by the smiling foursome. These were the Allegretto from the Quartet, opus 12, which Mendelssohn wrote while still in his teens, and the final movement from Haydn's "Lark" Quartet.

Here are four musicians who, individually, possess the most dazzling virtuosity combined with the richest gifts of musical intellect, taste and inspiration. And they play as with one mind, one soul, one rhythmic pulse.

"CELESTIAL VOICES"

The Stradivarius instruments speak with truly celestial voices in the hands of this quartet. The matchless blend and balance of tone remains undisturbed whether their dynamic range is confined to a whisper, as in the "tres lent" movement of the Ravel Quartet, or pushed to the chamber ensemble extremes of the Beethoven E minor.

Mozart's Quartet in D (K. 575), is sometimes spoken of as the "cello," due to the frequent dominance of the baritone instrument in the work. The clean elegance of Mozart was expressed with the utmost delicacy of phrase and color.

The poignant slow movement of the Beethoven was most profoundly moving and bespoke the rich poetic nature that is the source of the Paganinis' inspiration.

The lovely tonal texture of Ravel's only quartet for strings is like a shimmering of light on calm pools. In the hands of the Paganinis it was a sheer delight of delicate contours and crystalline impressions.

No high school auditorium will hold all who will wish to hear them in a return engagement.

$50 FOR TROUBLE

Bruentjen Offered B.C. Packing Job

OTTAWA, March 11 (BUP)—Willi Bruntjen, the German immigrant who rose to fame overnight when he was suspected of bringing foot-and-mouth disease to Canada, left for Vancouver with $50 today to seek his fortune.

The strapping, 27-year-old Wehrmacht veteran was undaunted by the fact that he was nearly broke and convinced that in Canada he could realize his dream of one day owning a poultry and pig farm.

"After you've been suspected of bringing foot-and-mouth disease into a country, a little thing like being out of work is nothing to worry about," he said in German. "I'm sure I'll get a job and be able to save some money."

Bruntjen has been offered a job in a West Coast packing plant on condition that federal pathologists cleared him of being a conductor of the disease. He was pronounced free of the virus Monday by federal pathologists who examined his body and clothing.

Bruntjen spent 12 days in Ottawa before making a reservation to return to Vancouver today aboard a commercial airliner. He was given $50 for his time spent here, and his room and board was paid out of federal funds. He said he was "very satisfied" with the treatment accorded him.

"The room was good, the food was good, and I got to know the Canadian capital," he said. "I never had it so good."

Bruntjen added, however, that his stay here was dull. "All I could do was sit around and listen to the radio," he said. "I read German and English newspapers and I studied a lot of English."

CBC Charged With Airing Leftist Views

WINNIPEG, March 11 (CP).—A Winnipeg group says that the CBC aired "leftist" views in a recent Citizens' Forum program.

The group, the Winnipeg Anti-Communist League, asks in a resolution that the CBC balance such views in future by using speakers on the same program who are "thoroughly informed about the Marxist conspiracy."

The resolution was endorsed at a league meeting. Copies were sent to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, leaders of the opposition, and "other responsible Canadians."

It criticizes "bias" on the program and says that a forum speaker upheld the contention that China should be admitted to the U.N. and Formosa should be handed over to the Red forces.

The resolution also says Elmore Philpott, chairman of the forum, "displayed obvious support of the speaker's argument."

South African Fleet Tops Whaling Catch

DURBAN, South Africa, March 11 (Reuters).—The South African whaling fleet has won the "blue riband" of the Antarctic whaling season for the second time in a row, the Union Whaling Company announced Monday. The 17-fleet caught a record 30,000 tons of whale and sperm oil, valued at more than $8,000,000.

Firemen Escape Death As Theatre Roof Falls

Three Buildings Blaze Within Ten Minutes Of Outbreak; Quick Work Confines Damage

Special to the Times.

PORT ALBERNI, March 11—A raging fire that started in a restaurant and leaped to two other buildings within minutes today did an estimated $100,000 damage.

Totally destroyed were Spooner's Cafe building, the old Port Theatre, closed two months ago, and the Port Billiard Hall.

At press time this afternoon it was reported confined and close to being "under control."

No one was injured, although two firemen narrowly escaped death when the theatre roof collapsed and one of several Chinese millhands in a rooming house over the billiard hall had to leap from an upstairs window.

All the buildings, extending about 200 feet along First Avenue North, in the heart of the old business district, were of frame construction and had two floors.

According to first reports all were partly covered by insurance.

The fire is believed to have started in the restaurant kitchen. The alarm was turned in at 10.30 this morning and within 10 minutes all three buildings were ablaze.

FIRE CONTAINED

Volunteer firemen, under the direction of Fire Chief William Venables, managed to keep the flames from the Club Cafe and upstairs living quarters just one foot away from the burning buildings. At press time they were still spraying water on the building, and were certain of saving it.

All residents and occupants of the three buildings and others in the vicinity were evacuated immediately.

All the city's available fire equipment was taken to the blaze, and outside departments were alerted but not called.

R.C.M.P., controlling traffic at the scene, estimated that up to 3,000 people watched the fire.

Among the goods lost were expensive ice cream machinery in the restaurant, seats and old projection equipment in the theatre, and all furnishings in the restaurant and the Chinese lodgings.

Also lost was the Eagles' Hall, above the restaurant. The billiard hall, a recreational centre 30 years ago, was used occasionally.

British Living Standard Hit

Britons Again Asked To Undergo New Round Of Belt-Tightening As Drastic Budget Read

LONDON, March 11 (CP)—Britons today were asked to undergo a new round of belt-tightening in a budget which raised taxes and food prices in an effort to head off national bankruptcy and stop inflation.

Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, brought down a record peacetime budget calling for expenditure of £4,240,000,000 ($11,872,000,000) in the fiscal year beginning next April 1.

He estimated revenue at £4,778,000, leaving a record treasury surplus of £538,000,000, despite spending of £43,000,000 more than last year.

(The pound sterling is quoted around $2.80 in Canadian international exchange dealings but this does not indicate its buying power in the United Kingdom.)

The 49-year-old chancellor, bringing down the first peacetime Conservative budget in 13 years, made proposals which will hit high and low alike. His address took only one hour and 49 minutes, one of the shortest budget speeches in recent years.

The low will feel a cut of about a third in government food subsidies, paid to keep the price of staple foods down. But they will also benefit by a juggling of income tax which will alow more pay for more work and by an increase in allowances the state pays to families with children.

The high will feel a jump in profits tax. An excess-profits tax will skim off 30 per cent of all profits above a figure reckoned on the last three years' earnings—or 18 per cent of all earnings, whichever is less.

As a drastic step to halt the drain on Britain's gold and dollar reserves, Butler announced the third round of import cuts since the government took office last October.

To stop inflation at home, he raised the bank rate to make money dearer and make it more difficult to get loans which do not fall within government planning.

Much of Britain's economic troubles comes from rearmament and the budget provides £1,550,000,000 for defense, up £60,000,000 from last year.

Price Of Staples To Rise

The big item in the budget for all Britons was the slash in the food subsidies from £410,000,000 last year to £250,000,000. Butler estimated this will mean an extra shilling and sixpence a week expenditure for every person in the country.

Angry cries of "class war" from the Labor benches greeted Butler when he listed meat, bread, flour, milk, butter, bacon, cheese, sugar and tea among the foods affected.

To balance these additional burdens, Butler proposed radical taxation changes to encourage people to work "harder and longer" and help accomplish the "tremendous task" facing Britain's exporters:

1. The tax on corporation earnings held in reserve or paid as dividends will be cut.

2. Legislation will exempt some 2,000,000 low-wage earners from any tax. In addition to increased family allowances, the income tax exemption for single persons will be raised from £110 to £120; for a married couple from £120 to £190, and for each child from £70 to £85.

Butler brought cheers from the House when he said:

"There will be no increase in tobacco and liquor."

A pint of beer now averages one shilling five pence.

FINAL BULLETINS

Blaze At Sidney Roofing

Victoria firemen this afternoon extinguished a roof fire in a machine shop at the Sidney Roofing and Paper Co., Industrial Reserve. Damage was not extensive.

Consider Old Times Building For Centre

Navy League officials are studying the possibility of using the former Victoria Daily Times Building at Fort and Broad Street as a United Services Centre.

Col. Russell Ker of Ker, Stephenson Ltd. advised City Council executive committee during the discussion on future use of Prince Robert House today that the Times Building could be purchased for $80,000.

Leader Denies Hockey Dissension

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP)—Al Leader, president of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, said today the league will continue to operate "as presently constituted."

Leader said he was making the statement because of "the evident lack of desire of some people" to see the league prosper.

He said the coast teams are happy with the prairie teams and that "the three prairie cities have indicated they are satisfied and well pleased with their connections with the coast clubs."

Willi Brunetjen 'Lost' Again

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP)—Willi Brunetjen is "lost" again.

The 29-year-old German immigrant, cleared by the government Monday of having unwittingly carried the virus of foot-and-mouth disease into Canada, was said to have boarded a regular Trans-Canada air lines plane at Ottawa Monday night.

He was scheduled to arrive today in Vancouver, where he has been offered a job in a meat-packing plant.

Remanded For One Week

PENTICTON, B.C., March 11 (CP)—Mrs. Manfred Seeberg, 22, of Vancouver today was remanded one week when she appeared in court on a charge of murder.

Mrs. Seeberg survived what police said was a family "poison pact" March 1. Police said Mr. and Mrs. Seeberg decided to kill their ailing daughter, Victoria, and then take their own lives. The child and father died. The mother survived after taking the same unnamed potion which killed them, police said.

Child Thought Parent Was Asleep; Food Set

By ROY THORSEN

A three-year-old boy, wet, cold and hungry, stayed three days and nights with a mother he thought was sleeping in their Sidney home. She was dead.

This is the tragic story told today by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers who investigated the death of the young mother Sunday night.

The little fellow did not complain. He had not even cried loudly enough to be heard by neighbors in all the time he was alone with the mother he could not waken.

Suffering from a severe cold, the child is now being cared for by a neighbor.

The 23-year-old mother was lying on a couch. It is the belief of police that death was due to an overdose of sleeping pills.

However, before taking the fatal dose, the mother laid out a quantity of food in the kitchen where her child could reach it.

The presumption is the mother hoped the food would last until someone investigated to find out why there was no sign of life in the four-room house.

EVERYTHING EATEN

"The poor little tike had eaten everything he could find," officers reported. He had gone through two quarts of milk, some meat, bread, cornflakes and other cereals.

A woman neighbor, suspecting that something was wrong, called police to check the house Sunday. Death is believed to have occurred two days "or more" before the police arrival.

NO INQUEST

After reviewing the case with police, Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner, has reported that no inquest will be held.

A note was left by the mother. Police said reports were she had threatened suicide before.

According to police information there had been considerable family strife which had led to frequent separations. The husband was not living at the house at the time.

Highway Outlet Construction Set For Spring

Appropriation In Works Budget

Work will start in about two months on construction of a new highway outlet from Victoria to the Upper Island.

The long-awaited project was included in 1952-53 work program, announced this afternoon in the Legislature by Public Works Minister E. T. Kenney.

The minister said a total of 4.6 miles of new road will be constructed as the first phase only of the overall project which will total 10.2 miles. Remainder of the job is expected to be carried out next year.

Exact route to be followed by the new outlet will be announced in about one week.

It is expected the road, leading off from the civic area at Douglas Street and Tolmie Avenue will take a sweep around Portage Inlet in the same general direction as Burnside Road. It will possibly use some portions of the present Burnside Road, crossing it at other points, with the whole stretch brought up to modern highway standard with easy grades and sweeping curves.

It will eliminate the bottleneck now caused by both the Gorge and Craigflower Roads feeding into the Island Highway at the Four-Mile Hill.

FOLLOWS ROAD

Remainder of the new highway will generally follow the present road from the general vicinity of the Six-Mile House to as far as Langford. This work will be mainly a "straightening and widening job."

"Nearly all of the first section to be done this year will be new road over an entirely new route," an official said.

Over-all width will be 44 feet, 24 feet being paved. Ten-foot shoulders will be provided for on each side of the road. The highway will be part of the Trans-Canada system for which the federal government pays one-half.

White Said Key Figure Of Vancouver Bookies

VANCOUVER, March 11 (CP)—Racing wire operator E. Massie White was called the "keystone" of Vancouver bookmaking today as city prosecutor Gordon Scott began his detailed summation to the jury of the case against 25 men and one woman charged with conspiring to operate the city's farflung horsebook parlors.

The prosecutor, who has led the major part of the evidence against the alleged conspiracy of racing news publishers and supposed bookmakers, followed White's counsel, John L. Farris, who wound up the defense.

"We have it from Mr. Scott that telephones are essential to bookmakers," Mr. Farris said. "The mere fact that the telephone is supplying a necessary service to bookmakers doesn't make it part of a criminal conspiracy.

"There can't be one law for a large corporation like the B.C. Telephone Company and one for a small business man like Massie White.

"The mere fact that Massie White is supplying a necessary service does not make him a party to a criminal conspiracy any more than the B.C. Telephone Company."

DOUBTS INCOME

Prosecutor Scott on the other hand called White's racing wire and scratch sheet publication essential to bookmaking and said he doubted that White made only $4,000 a year from his operations.

White, he declared, paid $100 a day for 233 days of the year to a George O'Malley in Seattle for his racing service and had at least 32 subscribers in Vancouver, paying a minimum of $38 a week.

"His only other source of revenue was from the three daily newspapers, who paid $60 a month," Scott declared. "This little bit of revenue you can forget. It does not even pay his phone bill of $250 a month.

"Multiply 32 by $38 a week. See if you can make it compatable with $4,000 a year," Scott said pointing out that White would pay $23,300 a year for the Seattle wire service.

Vancouver Stocks Closing Prices

Trading was sluggish at Vancouver in the late session today but sparked by strength in a few western oils and a couple of good gains.

Britalta seemed to have settled down at $8.20 after its climbing spree of the past week; Rundle Oils, in response to news of holdings in the same area as Britalta, moved ahead four points to 43; Anglo-Canadian at $9 was off five points.

Most issues in the oils group held earlier gains. Mines and industrials were inactive.

Times Editorial Rouses Legislature; Motion To Ask Retraction Defeated

By GORDON FORBES

The British Columbia Legislature just before midnight Monday narrowly defeated a move to have Victoria Daily Times' publisher Stuart Keate ordered before the Bar of the House to retract and apologize for statements made in a recent editorial.

The House debated the issue for a total of two hours in afternoon and night sittings. It was the most spirited debate in the current, dreary session.

The editorial which aroused the ire of C.C.F. Leader Harold Winch and others appeared in last Friday's issue of the Times. It dealt with certain phases of hospital insurance and suggested that members urging abolition of co-insurance were thinking of getting re-elected. It said the only person who is happy about the situation is Winch "who seems to have been the chief author" of the inquiry board report. Winch cared nothing for costs or expenditures, the editorial said.

Winch first raised the issue Friday when he asked Madame Speaker Hodges to "deal with" the editorial and report her findings to the House. Monday afternoon she told the legislature the House must deal with it.

PAPER TABLED

Sydney Smith (Govt., Kamloops), chairman of the inquiry board, then tabled a copy of the paper containing the editorial and the clerk of the House read marked sections.

Smith made a motion asking that publisher Keate be brought before the Bar of the House on Tuesday (today) to retract "defamatory statements" in the editorial. He said the editorial attacks the character of one member of the House, is a slur on the integrity of the board and imputes improper motives to members of the legislature.

The House also defeated by a six-vote margin an amendment to the original motion which, if passed, would have seen the legislature "record its disapproval of an unprovoken, unwarranted and untrue attack upon members of the hospital insurance inquiry board and members of this legislature."

During the course of the debate the editorial, among other things, was termed "vicious," "a betrayal of faith," "defamatory," "stupid," "foolish," "a reflection on the integrity of members," "character assassination," "unprovoked," "irresponsible," "unfair," "blunt," "disgraceful and scandalous," and "misleading."

Declaring he is a great believer in the freedom of the press, Smith said he wanted to point out that the license and privilege enjoyed by the press carries with it a responsibility to be fair and honest.

"Could anything be more stupid and foolish?" he asked when referring to the suggestion that inquiry board members were thinking of getting elected when framing the report. The editorial, he said, demanded a denial and reprimand.

The suggestion that Winch was the author of the report, Smith said, was an insult to the intelligence and a reflection on the integrity of board members.

Walter Hendricks (Govt., Nelson-Creston), also a board member, seconded the motion.

Murder Hearing Opens At Nanaimo

NANAIMO, B.C., March 11 (CP)—Story of a delivery truck trip from Campbell River to Duncan with considerable wine drinking and lots of joshing and fooling, but which resulted in death by stabbing of Raymond Boyce, was related in Assize Court today when Albert Fairweather, 26, went on trial for murder.

On the stand was Bruce Edward Chambers, one of a party of six. He told of drinking beer at Campbell River and a bottle of wine before reaching Courtenay. There they got more wine and a friendly dispute developed as to who would pay for the next bottle.

I shore like The Times for my little coal stove. But I never thought it would burn up the Parliament Buildins'.
